BUSINESS IS ANXIOUS
Wants End to Disturbances at Eve of Winter Tourist Season

Washington (AP)—Continuance of the previously announced policy of the American government to remain aloof from internal Cuban affairs was announced today by Secretary Stimson.

Havana (AP)—Cuba went about its business today with no outward indication that the constitution had been suspended from one end of the island to the other. Police remained in charge but there had been no necessity for calling out troops, although the country is virtually under martial law.

Street gatherings are forbidden, largely as a result of yesterday's disturbances in which arrests were made and one man was fatally wounded. Today the police arrested the publisher and art director of the weekly magazine, Karikato, on charges growing out of a cartoon in the current number of the publication.

Serious as the political situation is to all Cubans, the country is anxious for a speedy return of peace in view of the approaching winter tourist season. The roads begin at Oriental park on Dec. 20, and the National Casino is scheduled to open the day before Christmas. Businessmen have begun to fear the season will be a failure unless the present situation is eased.

DENIES RESIGNATION RUMOR
Reports that President Machado had tendered his resignation to the supreme court were denied by the president and the American embassy here as "utterly false" stories that it had asked that two cruises be sent here from Guatemala to protect American interests.

After a day replete with island-wide disturbances which police curbed only by firing their teargas into the air, the president, who had been in the city since the disturbances began, today addressed the assembly of congress and suspended constitutional guarantees for 60 days.

The suspension is similar to that effected in Havana and environs for a 20-day period, just ended, when student disturbances here threatened the government. It allows imprisonment without trial, suspends free speech and invokes other summary measures.

Meanwhile 200 physicians, voicing protest at conditions, voted to "strike" if the government makes good its threat to imprison professors of the National university who support the leaders of recent disturbances. The doctors said they would neither answer sick calls nor issue prescriptions.

PAIR ARRESTED FOR BANK HOLDUP IN IOWA
Minneapolis (AP)—Benjamin Lifson, real estate operator, and James Connolly, a broker, were arrested here today by private detectives charged with being accessories to the $25,000 robbery of the Otterburne, Iowa, savings bank Sept. 9 last. Bonds worth $7,500 stolen in the raid were recovered, detectives said.

Who likes to shop when a store is jammed to its doors, when the salesmen are tired, when everybody is in a big hurry and when some of the choicest bargains have been sold out?

Nobody, of course. But a lot of people are going to have to do that this Christmas—because they keep putting their Christmas shopping off.

Do your buying now and escape that last-minute rush.

Wife Sues

Los Angeles (AP)—A divorce suit on file here today asserted Tom Mix, hard-riding, quick-shooting cowboy of the screen and the circus, had galloped away from home and didn't intend to come back. Mrs. Victoria Mix, in filing the suit yesterday, said Mix left Nov. 26 and by way of emphasizing his statement that he would not be back, twirled a loaded gun on his trigger finger in wild west fashion. She was greatly frightened, she said.

CHICAGO GANGMEN REOPEN WARFARE

Two Shot to Death by Fusillade from Automobile

Chicago (AP)—A fusillade of shots and the roar of an automobile engine signaled the apparent resumption early today of gangland warfare, quiescent for a month or more.

Two well-dressed young men were the victims. Both had been shot to death. Police said they were identified as Rudolph Mareno, 24, and John Thomas, 28, alias George Mayo, adding that Mayo had police records in Buffalo, N. Y., and Rochester, Ind.

A lonely highway in the Evergreen Park district was the scene of their assassination. Mrs. Martha Van Woerden of Crown Point, Ind., a guest in the home of Joseph Klomp, a truck farmer, heard the shots and the roar of the motor of an automobile. A few minutes later Theodore Wiersma, a resident of Evergreen Park, en route home in his car found the bodies lying beside the road.

About the same time the Chicago detective bureau received a telephone call saying two men had been slain. Neither the Evergreen Park nor the county highway police had called, leading the detectives to believe that the message had been telephoned by the killers themselves.

The last gangland slaying was that of Joe Aiello, northside gang chief, who walked into a machine gun nest last October.

CHARLES PADDOCK AND FORMER PLAYMATE WED

Pasadena, Calif. (AP)—Charles W. Paddock, once known as "the world's fastest human," was honeymooning today with his bride, a childhood playmate.

Paddock and Mrs. Neva Frisk Malaby were married last night at the home of the bride's parents, Mr. and Mrs. Frisk. Among the guests were several who recalled that as children the sprinter used to race Neva Frisk around the block, she on a bicycle and he afoot.

Doumergue May Be Forced To Dissolve Parliament

Paris (AP)—France began to wonder today, while Theodore Steeg sought more time in which to form a cabinet, whether President Doumergue will not eventually be obliged to resort to the drastic expedient of dissolving parliament as a solution to the ministerial crisis which has dragged along for more than a week.

There is a precedent for such a measure. In 1887 the famous Marshal MacMahon dissolved the chamber when he was president of the third republic, but his action has come down in history as a coup d'etat and coups d'etat have not been popular in France since Napoleon III proclaimed himself emperor.

MacMahon's aim, the historians say, was a desire to get rid of a Republican majority and make room for the election of monarchists. But the younger generation in France now is insisting that dissolution of the chamber is a right vested in the president by the constitution. The head of the republic, they contend, should be permitted to exercise this power without its being considered in any way extraordinary or outside the constitution.

What they want, they say, is to make the constitution a living instrument. They maintain that dissolution does not now involve the same danger as in the early days of the republic. They contend that the present chamber was elected in 1928 on a program of stabilization of the franc inaugurated by Poincare, and the emphasis that new political issues have arisen since the last election holding that if the difficulty of forming a cabinet continues the voters should be given a chance to voice their opinions without waiting for the 1932 elections.

HOUSE TURNS DOWN SENATE ON FUND BILL

Refuses to Accept Amend- ments to Emergency Un- employment Measure

Washington (AP)—The dispute over huge expenditures for unemployment and drought relief was transferred today from the senate to the house.

Shortly after meeting, the former adjourned out of respect to Senator Overman of North Carolina, who died early this morning. But the house went ahead.

Representative Tilson, the Republican leader, came to the assistance of the administration in its demand that relief appropriations be confined to the limits it has set.

Representative Aswell, Democrat, Louisiana, a member of the agriculture committee, replied the senate bill was supported by the president's drought relief committee and by state agricultural commissioners.

The committee has approved a measure to provide $30,000,000. The administration asked for $25,000,000. The house refused to accept the senate's amendments to the emergency unemployment fund bill and asked for a conference.

Chief among the senate changes were amendments raising the total appropriation from $110,000,000 to $118,000,000 and a refusal to give President Hoover discretionary power in expending the money.

The Muscle Shoals conference failed to agree on any compromise between the senate and house, and adjourned.

Chairman Parker, of the house interstate commerce committee, said there was little prospect for enactment of railroad legislation during this session, due largely to the senate's failure to vote on the bill to regulate motor buses.

The house irrigation committee closed hearings on the senate bill to provide loans to drainage districts after controversy rose over suggested inclusion of irrigation districts in benefits of the proposed $95,000,000 revolving loan fund. Chairman Smith said he would press for final committee action next week.

STENOGRAPHER GRILLED AT SHEPARD HEARING

Kansas City (AP)—Miss Grace Brandon, star witness for the government in the trial of Major Charles A. Shepard for the alleged poison murder of his wife, today underwent a grilling by the defense as to her love affair with the elderly army medical officer.

Henry S. Class, Denver attorney, led off with a barrage of questions concerning Shepard's first meetings with the girl, a San Antonio, Texas, stenographer, for the love of whom the major is charged with poisoning his wife at Fort Riley, Kas., in June, 1929.

Asked if Shepard had not always considered himself as a gentleman, the girl replied: "Yes, he was a perfect gentleman."

LENHARDT GOES TO HIS DEATH IN COOK-CO JAIL

Chicago (AP)—William Lenhardt, Cleveland gunman, whose testimony two days ago helped to save his aged mother from a prison sentence on charges of conspiracy, was electrocuted at the Cook-co jail at 12:14 a. m. today for the slaying of a North Side restaurant owner.

Lenhardt was one of the three originally scheduled to die this morning in the electric chair, two here and one in Joliet penitentiary. Court writs stayed the other executions.

THEFT OF $2 BLANKET LEADS TO SECOND DEATH

Rockford, Ill. (AP)—The sequel to the argument over the theft of a $2 blanket two months ago was written yesterday when the six-year-old son of Glen Amundsen, 22, Durand, Ill., found his father's body in a hayfield.

C. M. Stewart, Brodhead, Wis., roadhouse proprietor, recently died of a revolver wound inflicted by Amundsen during a quarrel over the blanket. A grand jury failed to indict Amundsen, but yesterday he committed suicide.

W. C. T. U. EXPECTS TO BACK HOOVER IN 1932

Washington (AP)—Mrs. Ella A. Boole, former president of the Woman's Christian Temperance union, said today after a call on President Hoover that the Woman's Christian Temperance union had supported President Hoover in 1928, is loyal to him now and expects to support him in 1932.

Burns Fatal To Laborer At Racine

Racine (AP)—One man was fatally burned, two of his children were seriously injured, and about 15 persons were forced out of doors when fire broke out in an apartment dwelling following an explosion here early today.

Louis Sitor, 35, a laborer who recently moved here from Iron Mountain, Mich., died at a hospital from his injuries. Two of his children, Linda, 10, and John, 9, suffered severe burns and cuts. Mrs. Sitor and another son, James, 7, escaped unhurt.

The fire originated from an explosion when Sitor poured kerosene on cinders in the kitchen stove. His clothing enveloped in flames, Sitor leaped through a second floor window after shouting a warning to his wife and children who were sleeping in an adjoining room.

Firemen rescued the mother and her children from a porch roof. They succeeded in holding the fire to the single apartment although four other families were forced out by smoke.

Sitor had been working only two days a week and welfare workers took charge of the destitute family.

HEARING PLANNED ON KAUKAUNA BUILDING

Government to Determine Need of New Postoffice in That City

Washington (AP)—A hearing on the needs for a new post office building at Kaukauna will be held by the Interdepartmental Public Buildings Committee on Tuesday at which Rep. George J. Schneider of Appleton will urge appropriations for the structure.

Inspectors have already made a survey of Kaukauna's postal needs, and there is a possibility for an appropriation for the building in the next public buildings appropriation bill.

The post office at Kaukauna is located in the municipal building, in space rented from the city. The city now wants this space, and there seems to be no other suitable place which the government can rent, Rep. Schneider said.

Kaukauna's postal receipts are between $20,000 and $30,000 a year, and this fact will give the town a good chance to be considered, Rep. Schneider believes.

Menasha is also expected to get an appropriation for a new post office during this session of Congress.

NO AGREEMENT REACHED ON MUSCLE SHOALS BILL

Washington (AP)—The congressional conferees on Muscle Shoals considered further compromise proposals today, but reached no agreement and adjourned to the call of the chairman.

Senator Norris, author of the government operation bill passed by the senate, submitted a revised proposal providing for government operation of the power facilities and leasing of the nitrate plant for the manufacture of fertilizer ingredients alone.

Norris said the senate conferees would never yield on the provision that the government build transmission lines for distribution of power.

The conferees also considered the compromise suggested last week by the house group for government operation of the dam and all power facilities, but for sale of power at the switchboard.

ACCIDENT INJURIES ARE FATAL TO WOMAN

Milwaukee (AP)—Miss Ida Reeves, 20, died at a hospital here today of injuries she received when struck by an automobile driven by John Felkrum, West Allis.

Tilson Calls Drought Bill Pipeline To U. S. Treasury

Washington (AP)—A pipeline to the treasury, was the description given in the house today by Republican Floor Leader Tilson today to the senate's $50,000,000 drought relief bill.

He condemned especially the provision for loans for food and clothing.

"The high-principled and industrious will insist on treating it as a loan and will cripple themselves in an attempt to repay it," he said. "The idle and shiftless will accept it as a gift and live off the federal government as long as the opportunity exists."

Appealing for support of the house agriculture committee's $30,000,000 proposal, limited to seed and fertilizer loans, Tilson said:

"If our real purpose is to drill a pipeline into the federal treasury and establish the debt in the United States, with all that will be necessarily follow, not only in the stricken areas but throughout the country where community after community is generously providing for the needs of its people in accordance with American tradition and American spirit, then let us adopt the senate bill. In doing so, however, let us at least understand what we are doing and the direction which the road upon which we are entering leads."

3,000 TROOPS OPEN FIRE ON BORDER TOWN

Garrison Cities Spring Into Action — Government Opens Censorship

Barcelona, Spain (AP)—Major Ramon Franco, Spain's premier aviator, who escaped from a military prison three weeks ago and has been a fugitive since, is one of the leaders in the military revolt which broke out today in the town of Jaca, the authorities here were informed.

Madrid (AP)—A military revolution started in Spain today on the heels of widespread labor troubles which have continued for several weeks.

The seething political situation in Spain boiled over at the town of Jaca, near the French frontier, where 3,000 infantrymen and artillerymen opened fire on the town.

When the news reached military headquarters at Madrid troop trains were ordered to converge upon Jaca in an effort to suppress the rebellion.

Complete censorship was clamped down immediately on all radio and telegraph messages.

Garrison towns north of Spain sprang into feverish activity as troops marched through to their trains "on the double."

Nothing but official information came through to Madrid tonight concerning the circumstances surrounding the revolt of the soldiers, and nothing at all was made public by government officials.

The revolt had been coming for weeks and the Berenguer government was not unprepared. Troop trains in all the garrison towns were waiting on the sidings, and soldiers piled into converge upon Jaca and put down the rebellion.

Friedman, however, continued to struggle and the other bandit shot him between the eyes. As the bandits fled the grocer staggered to the door way of the store where he fell dead.

Four Bodies Uncovered On North Dakota Farm; Two Of Family Still Missing

Williston, N. D. (AP)—Breaking under constant questioning Charles Bannow, tenant farmer near Schafer, today told authorities that the body of Mrs. Albert E. Haven was buried on the Haven farm where four other bodies of members of the family were found yesterday. A searching party immediately left for the Haven place.

Watford City, N. D. (AP)—The recovery of four bodies, three of them from a grave dug in a floor of a farm barn, today led county authorities to say they were close to a solution of the mysterious disappearance of a family of six near Schafer last February. The arrest of Charles Bannow, on charges of entombment, led to the recovery of the bodies of A. E. Haven who had lived on the farm, his sons, Daniel, 19, and Leland, 16, and an infant three months old. Mrs. Haven and a three-year-old child still were missing. Bones of the latter child were also believed found, but identification was not certain. The victims apparently had been beaten to death with a hammer. The motive has not been learned.

Accused of selling four hogs which did not belong to him, Bannow was taken into court here for a preliminary hearing. The matter of the whereabouts of the Haven family came up during the hearing. Bannow insisted that they had gone to Colton, Ore., to live and that he had taken them to a train to begin their journey.

After yesterday morning's court proceedings had ended, Bannow called his mother, a minister and his attorney and asked Sheriff C. A. Jacobs to take him to the farm. In a pile of refuse there, he told the sheriff, the body of the baby would be found. I was.

Authorities said Bannow asserted the child was killed by Mrs. Haven, who, he said, was mentally unbalanced. Haven, he is reported to have said, pledged him to secrecy, and buried the body.

After the first body was found, the sheriff took Bannow to Williston. Questioned there, he told the officers where other bodies were hidden. Working by lantern light, the authorities followed Bannow's direction, dug in a trench in the barn where Mrs. Haven's body was found.

Bannow is reported to have told authorities that Mrs. Haven had killed her husband and three of the children with a hammer and that Bannow aided in burying them. Mrs. Haven, the officers were told, then fled with the baby.

MORAN FREED OF VAGRANCY CHARGE

Gangster Will Try to Clear Up Second Similar Case in Chicago

Waukegan, Ill. (AP)—The "gangster" Moran, today stood acquitted of a charge that he is a vagrant. The "public enemy," a classification given Moran by the Chicago Crime Commission, was freed of the charge by a Lake County jury after five hours of deliberation last night. Moran shook hands with the jurors and announced that his next step would be to "clear up" another vagrancy complaint still pending against him in Chicago and confer with government authorities reported to be investigating his income tax payments.

Moran, referred to as the "gangster" because many of his followers have been slain, including the seven killed by machine guns in a N. Clark street garage a year ago last St. Valentine's day, was pictured by the prosecution as an associate of gangsters with no lawful occupation. The defense described him as a successful business man and property owner, who also dabbled a bit in stocks.

MEXICO ACTS TO GUARD FOREIGNERS' INTERESTS

Mexico City (AP)—The Mexican government today began a three-league step toward giving foreign capital guarantees of protection and sanctity of property rights. The chamber of deputies in a midnight session approved important amendments to the national agrarian law. Coincident with the chamber's action Manuel Perez Trevino, secretary of agriculture and himself once a farmer, sounded the note of the new order in Mexico. He said that 20 years of upheavals and experimentation with radical measures had led Mexico to the conclusion that the interests of classes are bound up in the interest of the whole and that the emancipation of workers depends upon cooperation with capital.

NEW METHODS URGED FOR FUTURE TEACHERS

Milwaukee (AP)—A plea for new methodology in preparing teachers for industrial arts training was made today before the American Vocational association convention here by G. F. Weber, director of vocational education at South Bend, Ind.

"The training of teachers in the industrial arts must be changed," he said. "Instead of training the 'College-of-all-trades' type of teachers, colleges would do well to have their industrial arts students confine themselves, more or less, to one field of activity, and become a master of that specialty just as an engineering school prepares its graduate for his chosen field."

FAIL TO IDENTIFY 4 IN LAYTON PARK ROBBERY

Milwaukee (AP)—Employees of the Layton Park State bank, robbed of $25,000 on Nov. 28, were unable to identify photographs of four suspects held by Minneapolis police, authorities here said today. The photographs were sent here by a Milwaukee detective who was sent to Minneapolis to question the suspects. The four men were arrested because an automobile found in their possession was similar to the one used in the bank hold-up here.

BUILDING FIRM LOSS MAY RUN TO $8,000,000

Secretary and Manager of Hollywood Concern Confesses Guilt

COVERS 9-YEAR PERIOD Tells Directors "I Am a Dirty Crook"—State Officer in Charge

Hollywood, Calif. (AP)—Charles A. Whitmore, building and loan commissioner, announced today that defalcations totalling several million dollars from the Guaranty Building and Loan association were admitted in a written confession by Gilbert Beesmyer, 45, its secretary-manager.

Directors of the association said Beesmyer's misappropriations might aggregate $8,000,000. They were said to have affected not only the association, in which he was a 65 per cent stockholder, but also the North American Bond and Mortgage company and the guaranty Holding corporation, both of Los Angeles. Beesmyer was described as having been a director of the latter concerns.

The confession, Whitmore said, was given to him and to directors of the association early today after which Beesmyer was taken into custody. He was charged with grand theft. Whitmore said the confession disclosed the most amazing and elaborate peculations of their kind in California in recent years. Beesmyer said the absolutions were made over a period of nine years.

The building and loan association was capitalized at $11,000,000 but officials said it had exceeded that figure. It was listed with the Bank of Hollywood, a relatively new institution which failed to open its doors Monday.

"The loss is certain to be very great. While this is the largest defalcation in recent years and comes at a time of unrest, nevertheless it should not be allowed to shake public confidence in the building and loan business."

Whitmore said his department would take charge of the Guaranty Building and Loan association and liquidate the remaining assets for the benefit of depositors.

LEADER IN BUSINESS
Beesmyer had been a leader in the building and loan movement here since 1921 and was a director of many such organizations as well as industrial concerns.

The association had 20,000 depositors.

Whitmore said Examiner Milton O. Shaw, who was transferred here from San Francisco, discovered discrepancies in the association's books. His findings were presented last night to the board of directors of the association, after which Beesmyer arose, directors said, and stated he had caused the trouble.

"How much was the defalcation?" one director asked.

"More than you think," he answered.

The directors guessed $1,500,000. "More than that several millions," Beesmyer was quoted as saying. "I am a dirty crook."

Beesmyer then launched into details of his operations. Whitmore said, stating he withdrew the amounts as overdrafts, loaning $40,000 to friends who approached him with hard luck stories and invest in two years ago $2,000,000 in the promotion of an oil company with the hope of regaining the amounts taken.

Whitmore said the exact amount of the misappropriations could not be determined until exhaustive audits had been made.

SEN OVERMAN SUCCEUMBS AT U. S. CAPITAL

North Carolinian Among Wilson Leaders During World Conflict

Washington (AP)—A sudden illness today took from the senate one of its oldest and most highly regarded members.

Sen. Slater Overman of North Carolina, closed 76 years of life and 23 of service in the senate chamber, shortly before 1 o'clock this morning. An indisposition of a few days standing had suddenly turned dangerous yesterday afternoon when he suffered an internal hemorrhage. He had rallied and was expected to last through the night at least when he was stricken by a second hemorrhage. Death then was inevitable.

With him was Mrs. Overman, who had shared his life since 1878 and one daughter, Mrs. E. N. Snow of Washington. Two other daughters, Mrs. E. C. Gregory and Mrs. Gilbert Hamby, were expected to arrive today from Salisbury, the senator's North Carolina home. His body will be taken there for burial.

After a political career already distinguished, Overman entered the senate in 1903 and soon became a leading figure in the Democratic party ranks. During the World war, particularly, he became essential to President Wilson. His snowy white hair was acquired in the heavy war tasks which included service on five major committees. He sponsored the act which gave President Wilson wartime powers more sweeping than any ever exercised by an American chief executive, and was the author of much vital legislation of that day.

JUST MISSED BEING DEAN

A queer stroke of fate ended Overman's life but a short time before he would have become North Carolina's senior senator. Two years before he came to the senate, North Carolina had sent F. M. Simmons, to the chamber. Neither was defeated until last year Simmons lost in the Democratic primary of his state. He stepped down on March 3, Overman then became dean of the senate. As it is Reed Smoot of Utah, eight years his junior, will become the dean, both began service on the same day.

Overman kept at his duties in the senate right up to the end. He had been at his offices Monday and made calls at government departments. Yesterday, though remaining at home, he had given considerable attention to senate affairs.

He was noted for taking joy in public service, with a deep affection for his colleagues which kept his tongue from becoming personal or vitriolic in the most heated debate. Just a year ago, he was in the thick of one of the most hotly contested battles of the senate, leading the unsuccessful drive for confirmation of Judge John J. Parker of North Carolina, as associate justice of the supreme court.

LEADER DURING WAR

During the war Senator Overman was chairman of the senate committee to investigate German propaganda. He was in the fight to put the war measures of President Wilson into laws. He fought for and helped obtain passage of the Espionage Act, the Overman bill giving the president extraordinary powers for the prosecution of the World war, the Clayton bill, and many others.

Senator Overman served on 16 major committees, and was ranking member for many years of the committees on appropriations, judiciary, rules and military affairs. When the question of preparedness became an issue his long experience on the senate military affairs committee made him a valued adviser. He was appointed chairman of the sub-committee of the judiciary committee whose investigation was said to have routed the lobbyists in Washington.

Born in Salisbury, N. C. Jan. 3, 1854, Mr. Overman was graduated from Trinity College, North Carolina, in 1874, taught school for two years and then became private secretary to Gov. Z. B. Vance. He remained with Governor Vance's successor, Thomas Jarvis, for one year, after which he resigned to begin practicing law in Salisbury.

Overman was a member of the North Carolina legislature in 1883, 1885, 1887, 1893 and 1899, during which time he served as speaker of the house. In 1895 he was the choice of the Democratic caucus for the United States senate but was defeated. He was president of the Democratic state convention in 1900 and in 1911, presidential elector for the state at large in 1900, and was elected to the United States senate in 1908, to be re-elected in 1914. He began his third term in 1914, when he was the first United States senator to be elected by a direct vote of the people of his state. He was re-elected in 1920 and in 1926.

One of Overman's first acts on becoming a senator was to obtain an appropriation for appointment of commercial agents to be sent abroad for the exploitation and extension of American commerce, especially cotton. From time to time he obtained additional appropriations for this work.

In the house of representatives Overman's work attracted wide attention. He seldom made long addresses but expressed his convictions eloquently, forcibly and at times vehemently.

His interest in education endeared him to the state. In 1885 he brought in a bill for an annual appropriation for the state university. The bill met keen opposition but the eloquence and tact of the legislator was successful and his bill became a law.

B. AND O. IS PURCHASER OF ALTON ROAD

Public Auction Sees Transfer at Total Cost of About 75 Million

Wilmington, Ill.—(AP)—The Baltimore and Ohio railroad in acquiring the Chicago and Alton has followed again the policy of its founders who, 104 years ago, foresaw that success was in westward expansion.

The public auction of the Alton here yesterday made certain its absorption by the Baltimore and Ohio, extending the Baltimore railroad's lines from St. Louis to Kansas City and from both cities to Chicago. The Alton had 1,053 miles of trackage.

The Baltimore and Ohio bid $23,000,000 for the Alton. It was the only offer and will cost the B. and O., with the added obligations, about $75,000,000.

The auction, held on the station platform in this hamlet, was ended quickly. The sale terminated a federal court receivership of eight years. The Wilmington station is the first out of Chicago owned by the Alton. The road enters Chicago on a leased line.

For the Alton, it was the end of 83 years of fluctuating financial life. Wholly a midwest line, traversing the rural districts of central Illinois and Missouri, it always was a "home" road, weaving its fortunes and sentiments into the life of the territory.

In 1827 the rallying cry of "Westward Ho!" stirred the B. and O. builders. Railroad and canal promoters of that day were facing east, scrambling for the Atlantic port trade.

"Important is this trade to Baltimore, it certainly is of minor consideration when compared with the immense commerce which lies within our grasp to the west," reported the organization's sub-committee.

ADVANCES TO WEST
From that year the B. and O. has been steadily pushing westward. In 1852 it was at the Ohio river; by 1875 it had touched Chicago, and at the turn of the century its trains were in St. Louis.

NEW NURSERY OPEN FOR INSPECTION BY PUBLIC

The new Be Neeta Faye nursery which Mrs. Herbert Rosenbaum is starting Monday at 724 W. Prospect-ave will be open for public inspection on Saturday and Sunday, from 1:30 in the afternoon until in the evening. The nursery is established to care for children while their mothers are engaged in other occupations or while they are shopping. An automobile service will be maintained to call for and return the children.

The Chicago and Alton grew from the Alton and Sangamon, incorporated in 1847. Abraham Lincoln was an unknown law clerk in its legal department. George Pullman first tried out his sleeping car on the Alton in 1857. In 1865 an Alton train carried Lincoln to his grave in Springfield.

During the late decades of the nineteenth century the Alton prospered. It was one of the first to use bright colors on its coaches, giving its trains such names as the "Red Bird" and the "Red Hummer."

In 1896 E. H. Harriman acquired the Alton for $39,000,000. He loaded it with $40,000,000 in bond issues, and a few years later added $20,000,000 more. A shopmen's strike and a miners' walkout brought a receivership in 1922. W. A. Bierd, the president, remained as receiver.

Minority stockholders of the Alton sought to overtake the auction, contending the property was being sold for much less than its value. The law provides an interval of 28 days for interested parties to object before the court may approve the sale.

COMMITTEE WILL FURTHER REVISE SMOKE ORDINANCE

Ringelman Chart May Be Incorporated in Proposed Measure

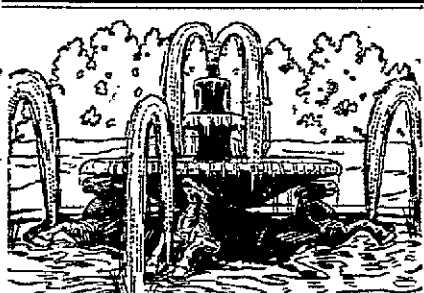

Further revision of the proposed smoke ordinance will be necessary before adoption, it was decided at a public hearing held at city hall Thursday evening. However, it will not be necessary to hold another public hearing.

Four Chicago and Northwestern railroad yardmasters and mechanical engineers and a representative from the Soo line railroad attended the meeting Thursday night. A Green Bay city official, interested in revising the Green Bay ordinance along the lines being followed by the local ordinance committee, was also present.

It is probable that the Ringelman chart, the federal bureau of mines scale for smoke designation standards, will be incorporated in the local ordinance. It will be printed on the back of the ordinance and distributed to all firemen.

It is planned to create a smoke abatement committee, which will have jurisdiction over most cases of violation, rather than send them into court.

The recommendation has been made that three minutes be allowed

249 year-old pipe still in use

IN 1680 Louis XIV of France built the famous fountain of Apollo. Today, water flows to it through the same iron pipes which were installed 249 years ago.

Just as this iron water pipe has served through the centuries, so the purified metal of the Buckstaff Burial Vault will continue to protect even beyond its 99-year guarantee.

The Buckstaff Vault is constructed entirely of purified Keystone Copper Steel. It is non-porous and water-tight.

Because of this positive protection, we recommend the Buckstaff Burial Vault. It is in keeping with our policy of providing the best in equipment and service.

THIS IS NO NIGHT FOR PARKERS TO DO THEIR STUFF

With all due courtesy to the great American game called parking, the street lighting committee announces that it will start its monthly prowls around the dark streets of Appleton at 7 o'clock tonight. However, it doesn't carry the warning to the point where it announces its itinerary, so if one parks anywhere in Appleton after 7 o'clock one is in danger of running amuck. On its last trip the committee unfortunately found it necessary to investigate the request for a street light around the cozy bend of E. Newberry-st, and apparently ruined what was once a good parking place.

EVERY STATE SENDS STUDENTS TO U. W.

Cosmopolitan Character of University Indicated by Figures

MADISON—(AP)—The cosmopolitanism of the University of Wisconsin is attested by figures announced today by Miss Annie B. Kirch, statistician. They show that the Wisconsin student body is made up of people from every state in the Union, and 35 countries outside of the continental confines of the United States, including the Philippine Islands and Alaska, territorial possessions.

Wisconsin is represented by the largest proportion of the student body with 6,569 of the 9,401 students enrolled. The smallest state representation is Nevada with one woman student enrolled.

With Illinois, especially Chicago, near, the second largest group of students come from there and number 318, but the third largest delegation is from New York State with 231 persons enrolled. A total of 133 students from Ohio give the Buckeye state fourth place in the listing followed by Indiana, 137; Michigan, 128; Pennsylvania, 118; Iowa, Ill. and Minnesota, 107.

Following Nevada for small representation, Delaware, New Mexico, Vermont, and Wyoming come with two students from each state.

The District of Columbia has 13 students here.

China leads the foreign nations with 32 students, while the Province of Canada has 27. France has contributed the most women foreign students—four of them. Out of the way places included on the student body include New Zealand, Korea, Iran, South Africa, Ukraine, and Uruguay.

The total number of foreign students is 127 Miss Kirch reports. Among the Wisconsin enrollment are 4,406 men and 2,163 women, while the entire student body is composed of 5,937 men and 3,464 women.

300 AT HEARING OF FARMER CHARGED WITH CALF THEFT

Crowd Cheers When Prosecutor Wins Point—Bavarian Butcher Is Witness

More than 300 people jammed into the circuit court room at the courthouse yesterday to listen to the preliminary hearing of Joseph Freund, 30, of Appleton, who is charged with robbery, larceny, concealing stolen property and resisting an officer. Freund's arrest followed the loss of a four-month-old heifer from the farm of Emil Smith, a neighbor of Freund.

Louis Caglier, an Appleton paper mill worker who came to the United States from Bavaria where he had worked for two years as a butcher, was called as an expert witness and testified that the head of the calf, which was used as evidence against Freund, was that of an animal only three weeks old. The head and two feet of a calf were taken from Freund's basement on a search warrant several days after Smith's calf disappeared.

The crowd cheered every time the prosecution, which is being conducted by Oscar J. Schlegel, assistant district attorney, won a point.

Freund's arrest was made on Sunday, Nov. 30, by Undersheriff Edward Lutz, who was called to the Freund home by Smith. Smith's calf was stolen Saturday night and when he found tire tracks near his barn, which corresponded with tracks made by Freund's car, he accused Freund of the theft.

WOULDN'T SHOW CARCASS
Officer Lutz went to Freund's home and Freund refused to show him the carcass of the animal he had killed. Freund claimed he had killed a male calf of his own, which was three weeks old. Freund is alleged to have resisted arrest.

The next day the officers again went to Freund's home armed with a warrant for his arrest and a search warrant. They found a carcass, a head, and two fore feet of a calf in Freund's basement and these were taken as evidence. Later Dr. William Madison fitted the head and feet on the carcass and declared they were perfect fit. Smith identified the head as that of his calf.

At the preliminary hearing yesterday Smith again identified the head and Dr. Madison testified that the head was that of a calf from three to four months old.

Freund claimed the head was that of his male calf, which was but three weeks old. Max Wolf, another witness, testified that he helped Freund kill the three weeks old calf, while the Bavarian butcher testified the head, employed by the state as evidence, was from a calf only about three weeks old.

The judge bound Freund over for trial on Dec. 17 and he furnished bonds of $500.

TWO APPLETON MEN INJURED IN CRASH

Two Appleton men were slightly injured early Thursday morning and their car damaged in a collision with another machine on Highway 41 between Lomira and Theresa, about 12 miles south of Fond du Lac.

Schneider and his father, Henry Schneider, also of Milwaukee, escaped with minor cuts and bruises, but their machine was damaged.

The injured men were taken to St. Agnes hospital, Fond du Lac. Retson and Kaulous returned to Appleton Thursday evening.

COLLEGE BOOSTS TUITION CHARGE NEXT SEPTEMBER

Increase Voted to Help Erase Annual Deficit, Wriston Points Out

Slightly increased tuition charges effective next September will comprise Lawrence college students share of the effort being made to erase the annual college deficit, according to announcement made today by Henry M. Wriston. The increase, which amounts to $17.50 per student, will meet but one-third of the estimated deficit for the new fiscal year beginning June, 1931. Nominally the increase raises the tuition from $200 to $217.50 a year but absorption of the gymnasium fee and artist series fee brings the actual increase to less than $20.

The increase in tuition was recommended to the executive committee of the board of trustees by the special trustee committee on balancing the budget and elimination of the deficit. This committee in recommending increased tuition felt that the policy of rigid economy followed by the college in the past few years made further substantial reduction of the budget unwise.

While the executive committee of the board of trustees with whose vote the proposal became effective did not name other ways in which the remaining two-thirds of the deficit would be met, it was stated explicitly that whatever economies were effected, nothing would be done to impair the educational program.

In announcing the increased tuition and the reasons necessitating it, Mr. Wriston pointed out that the problem of annual deficits is not peculiar to Lawrence nor new this year. It is one of the most common problems in college administration everywhere, he added.

The Lawrence board of trustees several years ago determined that the college should run on a business-like basis and began studying ways and means by which the recurrence of a deficit might be avoided. Certain constructive changes in the management of funds and properties have led to deficits during the last two years.

"The present increase in tuition is at the most one-third of the amount to be raised, he said. "Tuition amounting to $225 a year is still considerably below the average of tuition charges in midwestern institutions. Lawrence for many years has paid from its endowed income approximately one-half of the cost each student's educational expense. Even with the increase next September, Lawrence students as compared with students of other colleges will be paying a very small percentage of the college income spent for their instruction."

President Wriston pointed out further that the problem of the deficit is an old one. Present action, he declared, is the result of a policy adopted five years ago in which the college determined to pay its bills as it went along.

Charley Needs Gun And Lawyer To Get His Deer

Charles Steidl, county motorcycle officer, has his deer, but he had to fight for it.

Last week Officer Steidl went deer hunting up near Wabeno and shot a fat buck—at least he claims he shot it. But just as he was loading the deer on his car, prepared to start homeward, he was served with a writ of replevin by the sheriff of Forest-co. It seems a man by the name of Ray Kirschner of Appleton, also claimed the same deer. The sheriff took the deer away and Charley was informed he was to appear at a hearing Wednesday when he would have a chance to prove his claim to the animal.

So Charley, fortified by Assistant District Attorney Oscar J. Schmieg, went to Wabeno Wednesday to fight for his deer. And they won. It seems the Wabeno officials had

HIGH SCHOOL FACULTY HAS MID-YEAR PARTY

Entertainment was provided by Esther Mae Kranhold, Beatrice Bosser, Margaret Plank, Caroline Maurer, and Delores Tustinson. Joseph Shields and Leland Delforge gave a short stunt. Bridge was played, Herbert Heible winning high prize for the men, and Miss Alice Peterson for the women. Miss Elsie Mueller received the consolation prize. Dinner was served at 6 o'clock. Miss Olga Keller was in charge of the general arrangements. Santa Claus distributed gifts among the faculty members.

CABBAGE GROWERS TO HOLD ANNUAL MEETING

The Appleton Cabbage Growers' association will hold its annual meeting Saturday afternoon at the courthouse. A report by the special committee on its tour of the cabbage growing sections of the eastern part of the United States will be submitted. This inspection trip was made last fall by a committee composed of the officers and directors of the association and Gus Sell, county agent. The growers all will discuss seed conditions for 1931 and plans will be made for distributing seed for next season. Election of officers will take place.

SENIOR CLASS BOASTS FEW STUDENT FAILURES

The second six-weeks office report at Appleton high school shows that the senior class has the least number of student failures, 24 pupils being listed. The junior class had 64 failures and the sophomores 83. The number of subject failures has increased during the last six weeks. This time there were 223 students listed while the previous report was 173. Twenty eight seniors appear on this list, 83 juniors, and 112 sophomores.

CHARGE MAN WITH ATTEMPTED BURGLARY

George Burnett, 45, Seymour, was arraigned in municipal court before Judge Theodore Berg this morning on charges of attempted burglary. Preliminary hearing of the case was set for Monday and Burnett, unable to furnish $3,000 bonds, is being held in the county jail. It is charged he attempted to enter the soft drink parlor of Mike Meyer at Seymour Wednesday night. He was caught when a trap, set by Meyer, went off and Meyer apprehended him. Burnett was released and arrested Thursday by Police Chief J. N. Decker.

He is an old one. Present action, he declared, is the result of a policy adopted five years ago in which the college determined to pay its bills as it went along.

CHARGE TWO INDIANS DESTROYED PROPERTY

Two Ojibwa Indians, Edson Metoxen and Stanley Webster, were arraigned in municipal court before Judge Theodore Berg Thursday afternoon on charges of malicious destruction of property. Preliminary hearing of the case was set for Tuesday and the Indians were released. They were arrested by Sheriff John Lappen on complaint of Mrs. Catherine Stevens of Onida, who charged after her son had accidentally backed the machine into Metoxen. Metoxen suffered a slight cut on the head and it is charged that a gang of Indians, led by Metoxen and Webster, vented their wrath by pulling the tires from the car, tearing off the top, and otherwise damaging it.

CAT AND MOUSE ADD LIFE TO SPEECH BY ISHBEL M'DONALD

London — (AP) — Miss Ishbel MacDonald, daughter of the prime minister, addressing a women's dinner here last night, was interrupted by the sudden appearance of a mouse fleeing from a cat.

Some of the women laughed but many hastily wrapped their long skirts around their knees and pulled their feet up under them on their chair seats. The cat chased the mouse under the entire length of the table and cat was not restored until both disappeared.

Lawrence College Coeds Tell Of Tour In Holland

In a letter made public by the college authorities this week Helen Rudin, Lawrence college student to Europe, tells of her trip through Holland last September. Miss Rudin is accompanied on her tour of continental universities by Alice Bradford, New Rochelle, N. Y. Miss Bradford was a freshman at Lawrence last year and will return here next fall with Miss Rudin.

On Sept. 11 Miss Rudin and Miss Bradford reached Rotterdam, Holland, in time for a typical Dutch breakfast of Holland rusks, jam and cheese. After breakfast they started a tour of the city in a private car, guided by a young agent of the American Express company. Miss Rudin reports that commerce is the chief industry in Rotterdam, the city and adjacent canals being crowded with barges of all sizes and descriptions, and most of them bearing cargoes of various colored cheeses. The old Pilgrim church was especially interesting to the girls because it is the place where the pilgrims gathered for worship and meetings during their stay in Holland in 1618.

The next day, Sept. 12, they visited the Hague. Miss Rudin wrote. At the Hague they went through the winter palace of Her Majesty, Queen Wilhelmina of Holland.

"The palace is very simple, being constructed of cement blocks painted white, but inside it is beautifully decorated and contains many rare art treasures," Miss Rudin reported.

SAW PEACE HALL

"From the palace we went to the Peace Conference Hall, established in 1907 by the Carnegie Foundation and used as a building of international arbitration ever since. The hall is divided into four departments, the Permanent Court of Arbitration, the Permanent Court of International Justice, the Academy of International Law and the International Law Library, containing 75,000 volumes dealing with national and municipal law."

The museum at the Hague contains many works of Dutch and Flemish art which Miss Rudin described. Paintings by Hans Holbein, Franz Hals, Van Dyke, Rubens and Rembrandt were among the most famous and many fine examples of rare porcelains, marble, glassware, woodwork and tapestries were also on exhibit.

On Sept. 13 the students went to Amsterdam, less than an hour's journey by train from the Hague. In the Rijks Museum, the national museum of Holland, they saw several more original paintings by Rembrandt and many more Dutch art treasures, and on the following day left Amsterdam for Valendam and the Isle of Marken.

"We ferried across an arm of the Zinder Zee from Amsterdam to the island road station. The train, a decrepit old thing, took us through the country for a distance of about five miles. We passed many little Dutch farms. The hay barns, stables, and houses are all under the same roof," Miss Rudin wrote, "and appear like pyramids dotting the countryside."

INSPECT CHEESE FACTORY

At Broek, the first stop, Miss Rudin and Miss Bradford inspected a Dutch cheese factory. They reported that it takes "six weeks and three gallons of milk to make a single cheese." Cheese seems to be the chief product of Holland, because practically all the canal boats were loaded with them.

The last stage of the journey to Volendam was accomplished on a canal boat pulled by two men who walked along the banks. In Volendam the natives are paid to wear the traditional Dutch costumes for the benefit of tourists. Miss Rudin described the costume of the men as consisting of baggy black trousers and a double-breasted black coat

LAWRENCE EDUCATORS SCHEDULE ADDRESSES

Professor Lewis will speak to the chemistry classes of the Oshkosh state teacher's college at Oshkosh next Tuesday afternoon. His subject will be New Methods in Teaching Organic Chemistry.

over a red shirt. The women wear white lace caps and many colored skirts, covered by a couple of aprons. The little children are dressed exactly like their parents, including wooden shoes and all.

On Sept. 15, the day after visiting Volendam, the two students left for Cologne, Germany, where they began their tour of Germany and central Europe.

RAILROADS PREPARE FOR FIGHT WITH SNOW

Citizens concerned about removal of snow and ice from the thoroughfares in their communities may find comfort in reflecting upon the huge task imposed upon the western railroads in keeping their lines open during a severe winter, according to A. W. Lese, local agent of the Chicago, Milwaukee, St. Paul and Pacific railroad.

Word has been received here that the Milwaukee road has distributed to strategic points along its 11,000 miles of right-of-way, snow fighting equipment valued at $350,000 for the combat with Old Man Winter. Depending upon the severity of the weather, the Milwaukee road expects to spend from one quarter to three quarters of a million dollars this season for removal of snow and ice from its tracks.

In 1929, the road spent $748,000 in snow fighting work, employing hundreds of additional men and utilizing 150 pieces of equipment constructed for work of this kind, ranging from the humble "flanger" to the mammoth rotary plow, according to Mr. Lese.

RAILWAY SIX-HOUR-DAY

Were the proposal of some of the railroad brotherhoods for a six-hour-day aimed only at creating positions for more employees no one need be consulted perhaps other than the members of the brotherhoods, but the condition that there be no decrease in wages presents the problem with both its virtues and its difficulties.

Those actually engaged in the operation of trains have always been put in a class by themselves because of the public interest in its own safety, an interest that is protected by men in an alert mental and unfatigued physical condition. It may be that labor has selected the railroads for the primary six-hour-day campaign because of this peculiar position of advantage occupied by train operatives, but at the same time they will strike the disadvantage in the public knowledge that it must pay the cost of the change. No sweeping statement can be made concerning the present ability of the railroads to absorb the additional expense because some companies probably could and some could not. In some respects the income of railroads may be likened to governmental agencies that must secure enough to pay all expenses including a reasonable income on the value of investment, but the railroads cannot compel people to use their services, and therein lies a cause of some of their present financial difficulties.

The Association of Railway Executives in session in New York last week, and perhaps in anticipation of the brotherhood's move, presented facts in the matter of the trend of railroad traffic and earnings but not including 1930, recognized as an abnormal year, and here is their story: from 1890 to 1920 freight traffic showed an annual increase averaging 7 per cent, but from 1920 through 1929 the 7 per cent had dropped to 1 per cent; with passenger traffic there was an annual average increase of 6 per cent for the 30 years ending with 1920, but an annual average shrinkage of 3 per cent in the nine years since 1920; both these diversions have generally resulted from private motor cars, the motor bus, truck transportation of freight, water transportation, the long distance piping of oil, the long distance piping of natural gas, which has displaced coal in some industries.

Besides the foregoing railroad taxes have mounted at a furious rate partly because years ago they were taxed at wholly inadequate rates and partly because they have been so vulnerable to political attacks by those who did not always know exactly what they were doing. The politicians slapped the railroads and the railroads, with increased rates, passed the slap on to the public, the same public that cheered the politicians for slapping the railroads but paid the bill for the entertainment.

With water transportation and the long distance piping of natural resources the railroads must accept the inevitable because both are natural attempts to minimize the expense of carriage, but the transportation of passengers and freight by public motor vehicles presents a different problem. The people spend hundreds of millions for concrete highways which make possible the competing freight and passenger carriers, and for the use of which the latter pay but a trivial sum, but the railroads must buy their own rights of way, usually at a pretty stiff figure, build their own road beds, base and ballast them to a high but expensive degree of safety. Thus they are at a disadvantage with motor transportation simply because they must invest large sums of money for rights of way and maintain them and their competitors use the rights of way provided by the public money and maintained at public expense. The railways may meet additional expense with increased rates if necessary, but increased-rates has a dangerous aspect, too, that of driving further business to the competitors who are already making such serious inroads upon them. Yet if we are to have a more even or better distribution of the wealth of the country, how is that desirable end to be accomplished without increasing the size or number of pay envelopes?

CHAMPION OF CHAMPIONS

How would you like to be a champion, and if so of what? Would your choice be a headline golfer, a star half-back, the talk of the prize-ring, a second Einstein or the champion polo-sitter?

To us it seems that the really wonderful champions are those judged the healthiest boy and girl competing in a field of well-bred, well-fed, sturdy limbed and bright-eyed boys and girls. Such is the distinction achieved by Marian E. Snydergaard, 15 years old, of Grundy County, Iowa, and William Ross Bodenhamer, 20, of Johnson County, Missouri. What a heritage to receive and pass on!

Perhaps the rest of the people who have passed through the varying vicissitudes of human events and have been careless, and in some instances faithless, to the wonderful mechanisms with which all are endowed by nature, look back with envy and regret and heartfelt longing to the time when they too might have been adjudged champions of health.

And yet we pass along the way of life watching with care the working of an iron mechanism under the hood of a motor car, alert to the slightest strange noise or miss and usually with immediate action towards its repair; so solicitous too are we of old Dobbin or Peter the dog; but seldom a thought of the terrific demands we make upon the most wonderful machine of the ages, our own human bodies. Ofttimes we feed that body the worst sort of oil and fuel. We neglect it. We abuse it. We "let 'er go Gallagher," race past the red warning signals of danger and are brought to an abrupt and banging stop when it is too late.

And so when you think over this matter of championship and envy, Bobby Jones and Gene Tunney and Einstein and the rest of them, reflect upon yourself a moment and your own possibilities, for within your hands is the care and direction and control of an organism that may put you in championship class, or if not that, you may nevertheless reap from its normal and steady operations your full need of peace and purring contentment. And what better blue ribbon do you want hanging over the fireplace?

DISTURBANCE IN CHURCH

The recent disturbance at St. John's cathedral, New York, when Judge Ben Lindsey was ejected while attempting to interrupt Bishop William Manning while he was delivering his ascription, is a bit unusual to say the least. It is a trifle difficult to award any palms to any of the principals in the episode. To jump upon a table in the middle of a church service and demand a hearing does not seem quite proper; yet the speech that provoked the outburst seems, likewise, to have been something less than temperately episcopal. Of course both men have every right in the world to their beliefs on companionate marriage, but to start a brawl over them in a church seems hardly in keeping with the best practices of Christianity.

However, the first prize for poor taste and unsportsman-like conduct would seem to go to certain members of the congregation, who, as the offending judge was being dragged from the cathedral, cried loudly, "Lynch him!" "Kill him!" and urged that he be beaten up and thrown down stairs. As an example of Christian meekness and forbearance this behavior on the part of the crowd is not quite what one would expect from America's most fashionable and best-publicized church. Had the same incident happened in, say Chicago, the fashionable New Yorkers would have lifted their eyebrows disdainfully and remarked, "What can you expect?" All of which goes to prove once again, if proof were needed, that we are all more or less uncouth when our passions are aroused, whether we go to church on Fifth avenue or on the "wrong side of the railroad tracks."

An English railway is conducting the first extensive experiment in that country with steel cross ties, which heretofore have been found to interfere with electric signaling.

Gold production of the world for 1930 is estimated at about $405,000,000.

HAND IT to the World Court . . . whether you like it or not or whether you don't understand it (like us), it certainly manages to keep popping up despite its age and infirmities . . . and right at a time when the Southern senators are making faces at Prexy Hoover and Prexy is making them right back and just as the depression was getting to be a real congressional question . . . yes, give the World Court a big hand folks, deprecit or not, it keeps coming back . . .

These Europeans Are Learning Our Tricks

Leave it to the courts to drag out all the gore. For instance, the breach of promise suit brought by "Honey Hurdle" against "Sugar Doggy," all for the trifling sum of $950.00. Honey Hurdle is a blond lady from Vienna and Sugar Doggy is a big iron man from Michigan. (Maybe "Sugar Daddy" is better.)

Says Honey Hurdle: "He calls me hees horsie, maybe because I eat so much. I doan know—but the honey, that make it nice."

Chase us, we're a sugar-coated butterfly.

We Wondered About Showing You This for

Fear of Being Misunderstood

From Don Jose comes an interesting bit of news. Don brings us a clipping from Kenosha which tells about the newest fad over in Nice, France. (And it isn't so nice, either.)

It seems that the ultra-modern young set on the Riviera is going in for bathing suits which dissolve in water. Tsk, tsk. They're made of tissue which meets the requirements of the law until the wearer hits the water. The rest, Tillie, up to you.

But we wonder if they aren't likely to catch cold that way.

Now You Know the Truth

Trust the Literary Digest to catch at least one good one every week. Witness this, gathered from the highly esteemed and dignified New York Times: "Mr. Butler won his nomination by a plurality of only about $6,000."

LISSEN, FOLKS, there isn't anything exclusive about Post-Mortem. The way you've been holding off on your contributions lately makes us wonder what we've done or if we're in quarantine. Don't forget that the first of the year is at hand. How can we talk business with the boss unless we have a handful of bright new contributions to show him how much we're appreciated? It doesn't cost any more than the postage. Give until your brain hurts.

Normality is here again. It's started to snow.

Today's Anniversary

JOHN JAY'S BIRTH

On Dec. 12, 1745, John Jay, an eminent American jurist, was born in New York City, the son of a wealthy merchant.

Following his graduation from Columbia College in 1764, Jay studied law in New York City and soon attained eminence in his profession. He was a delegate to the First Continental Congress in 1774 and formed one of the committee of three which drew up the celebrated address to the people of Great Britain in which the "rights of the colonies" were stated.

After he had served as chief justice of New York and president of the Provincial Congress of New York, Jay was appointed United States minister to Spain. His real diplomatic fame, however, rests with his services at Paris, whence he had gone to join Franklin in negotiating the treaty of peace between Great Britain and the United States. Jay is considered to have had a prominent share in the signing of the Treaty of 1783.

When he returned to New York, Jay was appointed secretary for foreign affairs. Upon the organization of the federal government he was allowed by Washington the choice of all the public offices to be filled by the president's appointment. THE REVOLT OF THE BABIES.

NO. 3.—WHERE DO YOU GET THIS HIFALUTIN AND VERY EXPENSIVE SUGAR?

We the Bimbos of America respectfully submit to you the parents and the rest of the folks our united demand that the dangerous tampering with our food be stopped.

When a baby is lucky enough to be born to and nursed by a real, hundred per cent mother, his food for the time being is safe from all tampering, and if his mamma is intelligent and kindly treated the food will perfectly meet the young guy's requirements. But a whole lot of us babies are not so lucky as that. Far too many of us have to struggle thru the perilous months of infancy on some substitute for Old Doctor Nature's Peerless Infant Food, and when I say perilous I won't mean perhaps. It is in the sophistication of artificial foods for bimbos that the tampering we speak of is manifest.

Speaking of hundred per cent mothers, which means mothers who nurse their own babies, it is pleasant to know that there are more mothers in this class today than ever before.

The day has passed when a human (presumably) mother refused to nurse her baby when she was physically competent to do so, on the ground that it might tend to spoil her youthful form or interfere with her social activities. Most of the mothers of low percentage now are so because they are physically defective or mentally too dumb to cope with the difficulties involved.

In the preparation of artificial food for the body the usual method is to modify cow's milk so that it will more nearly resemble human milk. This modification consists chiefly of dilution with water, perhaps with a dash of sugar, and then the addition of sugar and cream.

Formerly the natural sugar obtained from cow's milk, called lactose or milk sugar, was preferred, but this is more expensive than cane sugar, and nowadays cane sugar is found quite as desirable for modification of milk for infants as is any other kind of sugar. Besides cane sugar, glucose (commonly known as corn syrup or corn sugar) may be used and is quite as satisfactory from every point of view as is cane sugar or milk sugar for the modification of milk for babies.

Nearly every day several mothers write to this column about their baby feeding problems and it seems to be the accepted notion among parents that the addition of some kind of proprietary sugar is the only thing to use for modifying milk. Probably the idea has been developed thru the good old method of propaganda and subsidized medical research. Anyhow it is just baloney, and we the organized infants of the country protest that it is not fair to us. Even where just plain and essential vitamins are purchased for a baby today the cost is high enough, as everybody knows but the political economists who decide how much fat can be deducted in this income tax report per bimbo. If a premium is paid for somebody's hifalutin brand or kind of sugar, over and above the price of such staples as cane sugar or corn sugar, why, likely as not the difference will be met by some cut elsewhere on our maintenance, and that's bad.

You parents may not know it, but you've got to watch out for this infant food sophistication racket. Even the organized medical profession of the country seems to be in the racket.

QUESTIONS AND ANSWERS.
 Iodin To Disinfect Drinking Water.
 How much iodine should one put in a glass of water when one is away from home, when one wants safe drinking water? (H. M.)

Answer.—For emergency purpose, a drop of tincture of iodine is a quart of water, shaken up and allowed to stand at least 15 minutes, will destroy any typhoid or other disease germs in the water. If it is a matter of just one drink, a drop in a glassful of water is not too much to take.

Injections For Acne.
 Are the injections that are given for chronic acne pimples dangerous in any way? (S. T. R.)

Answer.—If you mean bacterin treatment (so-called bacterial "vaccines") they are not dangerous. The best results are obtained when the bacterin is prepared by the bacteriological laboratory from cultures made from the strains of germs in the patient's lesions. The beneficial effect of such bacterin treatment becomes manifest only after the lapse of several weeks or months, not immediately. Often, I believe, patients who have received a few doses of bacterin and discontinued treatment because they did not experience immediate results, begin to improve several weeks later and perhaps give the credit to whatever remedy they happen to be "trying" at the time.

We Do Think Our Hand Lotion Is Good.
 My sister suffered with chapped hands and they became so sore . . . hospital told her she must give up wetting her hands . . . imagine a poor woman who must do all her own housework . . . But I wish you could see her hands now. She discovered your hand lotion, and it is nothing short of a miracle. Her hands are as smooth and soft as any girl's. . . (R. W.)

Answer.—Maybe we had better divulge the secret for the benefit of other sisters whose hands get red, rough and chapped.

Boric acid powder . . . 3 teaspoonfuls
 Tricagath shavings . . . 80 grams
 Glycerin . . . 1 ounce
 Rain water or distilled water 1 pint

There should be four (4) ingredients—if there are more or less, blame the printers, not me. Build all four ingredients together, stirring constantly, till a thin cream jelly is obtained. Add water to make up for evaporation. Apply a few drops of this two or three times a day, after washing and before hands are quite dry. Men find it a soothing lotion for the face after shaving.

The Tynmites

By Hal Cochran

THE caterpillar truck moved fast and soon the party traveled past a little clump of lonely trees. Beyond was naught but sand. "We're Copsy said, 'Oh, money me, it seems as lonesome as can be. When there is naught in sight it makes me wonder where we'll land.'"

"Don't worry," said the Travel Man. "We'll make the best time that we can and soon we'll reach an oasis and take a little rest. When traveling on the sand, it's hot, but you can stand it, like as not. We'll reach the stopping place real soon. At least, we'll do our best."

So, on they went! The truck worked fine. It traveled on a real straight line and plowed its way right through the sand that spread out everywhere. Soon Copsy said, "I think we should. Two at a time can snooze and then the other two. That's fair!"

Wee Copsy said, "Why, sure we can, but how about the Travel Man? The heat is bound to make him want to get a wink of sleep." This pleased the Travel Man and he said, "Oh, don't worry, kids! 'bout me, I'm sure that I can wait till night to get my slumber deep."

It wasn't long until they spied some little trees and Copsy cried, "Geel! Look! Is that the oasis?" The Travel Man said, "Yes! And that's where we will stop. I think. You'll all enjoy a nice cold drink! I'm going to loaf beneath a tree. I'm tired out. I confess."

They drove up to a building and a man walked out and waved his hand. It was a friendly greeting. All the bunch jumped to the ground. The Travel Man soon found that they were all tired out enough to stay and eat and drink and sleep a while, before they looked around.

A BYSTANDER IN WASHINGTON

BY HERBERT PLUMMER

Washington—When the 72nd congress convenes for the first session, the floor of the house of representatives probably will more closely resemble a reunion of old grads than a legislative chamber.

For old-timers will be back in the fold again—men who have served in previous congresses, but who, for one reason or another, have been vacationing for the past two years or more. In the house, more so perhaps than in the senate, a spirit of rare fellowship prevails among the members.

Friendships are formed there which endure. There is sorrow when one in the midst meets defeat back home and relinquishes his seat. And there is rejoicing when a familiar face appears after an enforced absence.

Lots of these old-timers are coming back next year. And a great welcome awaits them.

One of them is Zeff Weaver from North Carolina. Weaver spent something like 12 years in the house before he was defeated in 1928. He'll be back, and with him will come Maj. Al Bulwinkle from the same state, a member of four previous congresses.

From Missouri there will come the veteran Dickinson as representative of the sixth district. Dickinson has a total of 18 years of service—a member of nine congresses dating as far back as the 61st.

Another veteran to return is Shallenberger of Nebraska, a member of six previous congresses.

Augustine Lonergan is returning as representative from Connecticut to serve in his fourth congress. He was a member of the 68rd, 69th and 70th sessions.

And there are others—

MEMBERS ONLY
 Sam Major of Missouri will return after an absence of four years, which brings to mind a story concerning him and the first time he came to Washington as a representative.

One day he was writing a letter in the lobby of the house when a newly appointed officer approached, tapped him on the shoulder and told him he would have to get out, as the tables were for members only.

"Who are you?" Major asked. "I'm an assistant sergeant-at-arms," was the rather short reply.

"Listen, old man," said Major, "I've been here about two months, and I know I don't look like a congressman. I judge you've been here about the same length of time and you don't look like an officer. Let's both wait seven or eight years and maybe we'll both look the parts we are trying to play."

It is often necessary for a man to be thrust in the lap of fortune to be put on his feet, says the office sage.

Seen And Heard In New York

BY RICHARD MASSOCK

New York—The auction galleries of art are centers of luxury, where thousands of dollars are bid for ornamental baubles by a mere nod or the lifting of a manicured finger.

The largest one perhaps is in a staid old red brick building on Madison avenue, at Fifty-seventh street, Manhattan's thoroughfare of art, music and interior decoration.

It was there that Dr. A. S. W. Rosenbach, famed dealer in rare books and autographs, lately bought for $23,000 a letter written by Thomas Jefferson, telling, among other things, about a plot against the life of Washington.

A woman, who was at the sale, heard a gasp behind her when the bidding was started by the auctioneer at $5,000. She turned around and saw a girl, bent over excitedly, listening in amazement as the mounting figures were called out.

At each increase, the girl's excitement grew into gleeful enjoyment. Finally the autograph, part of an old Virginia family estate, was sold.

The girl jumped up and left the room with a companion. The woman, following just behind them, heard her say:

"We had no idea it would bring that much. That letter was lying around in some old papers and we thought it was only worth about $40 or $50."

DE LUXE BOAT
 Dr. Rosenbach has a luxurious sanatorium in Manhattan, where he lives surrounded by his possessions.

He also has a new fishing box on the New Jersey coast, where he cruises in the power-boat the "First Fish."

His floating bungalow probably is the only one containing a minstrel gallery and medieval stained glass windows.

A. W. O. L.
 The first night of a new play is a nervous moment for author and producer.

Some stay away, as though fearful of the audience's reaction, waiting for the fateful first editions to convey the critics' words of praise or paning.

One such is Herman Shumlin, who is so sensitive he stayed away from the opening of "Grand Hotel." He didn't reappear until two days later, after associates had searched high and wide for him to tell him the good news.

It seems he had walked from Forty-second up to 125th street, about five miles. Then he went home and to bed.

APPRECIATION
 Then there's the story of Groucho Marx.

One year the head of a large Fifth avenue jewelry salon is host at one of the most fashionable dinners of New York society. Servants in livery wait on the brilliant array of guests.

For several years he wanted the Marx brothers to come and entertain his guests. Finally he induced them to appear.

After the dinner was over, and before the entertainment began, Groucho turned to his host.

"Say," he said, in the presence of the assembled guests, "that certainly was a fine dinner. I want to tell you that your wife is a fine cook; one of the best."

BARBS
 There are 2371 tons of books in Harvard library, a college catalogue announces. And many smaller schools will want to know, no doubt, how Harvard got that weigh.

Racketeers are grumbling that they are getting too much publicity. They should realize, however, that it is better to be in the spotlight than on the spot.

An ad in a Berlin paper urges Germans to buy a photograph of Hitler for Christmas. This sounds like the makings of a frameup.

When a Scotchman says Santa will be round this year, he may only be referring to the size of the fellow's paunch.

Luggage makes the men's gift de luxe. Inexpensive too....

$5 to $65

For miles per dollar . . . no gift goes farther in appreciation and when you see this display of Christmas luggage, you'll agree that you can afford it and that he'd love it.

Gladstone bags in expensive looking materials and interiors at $15 up.

Cases for the car . . . his or Mr. Pullman's.

If you give luggage, you can be sure . . . and at Schmidt's prices, you can surely afford it.

Our Children

PUT ON THAT COAT

Many a mother is worn to a shred with the worry of making her son put on his overcoat. So she takes that overcoat. It is so stiff that it gets in his way, so long that it flaps about his legs when he runs. So hot when he is exercising. He hates that coat.

But he will take cold without it? Maybe he will but I doubt it. I have watched these young huskies who hate overcoats and I find that they rarely suffer from colds. The one that sniffs and sneezes is usually well bundled up with a woolly scarf about his neck, thick rubbers on his feet and a stout overcoat over a sweater to ward off the cold winds.

The other chap wears as little as he can do with. He may be red about the tips of the ears, a bit moist about the end of the nose, but he isn't coughing, and he doesn't sneeze. He hasn't time. He is kicking a ball, racing after it, fighting for it, rolling over the lot after it, doing anything but standing still to sniff and shiver.

If you have a delicate lad wrap him well and take no chances but if you have one of those stout, hard muscled, hard playing youngsters who have never had a day's illness in their lives, let them wear what they like and pay no heed.

Don't weight his feet with rubbers unless there is a fall of snow or slush that comes over his shoe-tops. Put a stout pair of shoes on his feet, warm stockings, good underwear, a wool jacket, mittens, cap, and turn him loose. Rain won't hurt him, neither will snow. Fresh air, the more of it the better, will ward off colds.

One of the causes of colds is poor diet. Watch that and keep it well balanced as to sugar and fat this season. Another cause is bad ventilation. Keeping children in badly ventilated rooms is enough to set them all to sneezing and coughing. It lowers their vitality and leaves them a prey to colds.

Suggestion helps keep a child well. Keep telling him how lucky he is, if he is, and say nothing to encourage a head cold. There is nothing easier for a boy than catching a head cold. He can take one right out of the air. And he can let it go by just as easily by keeping so busy and thinking himself so well that it never touches his consciousness.

But do not try to dress all the children alike. If there is a delicate one don't try to harden him by making him go without sweaters and exposing him to sharp weather. Deal with him as he needs without overdoing the care. Telling a child he ought to be hardy doesn't make him so. Ordering him to be well won't make him that way. Each of them has to have what his nature requires and none of them is to be blamed for having that kind of nature. It was wished on them, indiscriminately.

Let the healthy youngster run light as to overcoats. If he needs one he will wear it. Guard the delicate one. Usually he will help you for he feels the need. (Copyright, 1930, by The Bell Syndicate, Inc.)

CARE OF FEET IS IMPORTANT FOR BEAUTY

BY ALICIA HART

You may not be a barefoot girl with cheeks of tan, but every woman today likes to have her feet look right when she appears on the beach in bathing attire. Or in beach pajamas, with barefoot sandals.

More than that, your feet show more than you realize, right through your shoes. Nobody can harbor bunions and think the world doesn't know it.

Therefore, the very first advice to those who want beautiful feet is to have your shoes large enough. It is a precaution scarcely needed today. Nearly everyone, realizes that only through comfort does real beauty come. But once in a while, if a certain pair of lovely slippers is reduced, the best of us may fall for them, though they are just a little too short.

Second, the too-high heel is not beautiful. No woman can look her graceful best tilting along at an impossible angle, atop ridiculously high, slender heels. They may look beautiful for dancing, or for wear at the opera where you merely step from your limousine to your box. But never for the street.

CLEANLINESS IS IMPORTANT

These precautions taken, there are certain daily rituals that all feet are entitled to. Beginning these, your feet should be scrupulously clean. You should keep a brush dedicated to foot cleanliness and bathe your feet daily with warm water and a good soap. After this they should be rinsed thoroughly in cold water. Nothing makes them harder and protects them like this cold dash to close all the pores.

Neglected even for a short time, the sweat glands situated between the toes may develop secretions which are odorous. If you have developed this kind of trouble, try an alum foot bath or an Epsom salts bath nightly for awhile, with particular care taken to spread your toes apart while in the bath. Dry your feet carefully and between your toes paint the space with a good antiseptic.

If you have an especially difficult time trying wearing a bit of cotton between the toes for a few days and treat them each night. Also dust alum and talc, mixed in equal proportions, over them.

If you have sensitive, sometimes painful, feet, you can toughen them by bathing daily for awhile in solu-

WE WOMEN

By Betty Brainerd DREAMS

George William Curtis tells of walking beside the evening sea and dreaming a dream that could not be. Then he adds:

"The waves that plunged along the shore
Said only: 'Dreamer, dream no more!'"

Booth Tarkington has made a specialty of lifting the curtain on the dreams of adolescent youth. In the process he reveals the humor and tragedy of growing boys and girls. We read Penrod and William Syllvanus Baxter and smile at them and sigh for them.

As adults we dream the dreams of love and truth as Sarah Doudney described them in "Things That Never Was."

That stirred our hearts in youth,

The impulse to a wordless prayer,
The dreams of love and truth,
The longings after something lost,
The strivings after better hopes,—
These things can never die."

Shakespeare discouraged on dreams and said, "We are such stuff as dreams are made on." Almost every writer of note has dealt with the subject, but only Tarkington and Mark Twain have adequately shown the tragic humor of dreams.

We dream and, awaking to disappointment, continue to dream in spite of the protests of our minds.

The universal dream is the dream of happiness. We all dream it. We dream the dreams of love and truth and in some cases—in the instant of death—we come upon the realization of our dreams.

But this is merely conjecture. It may be that those who persevere in their dreams in the hope of earning their livelihood in the Great Unknown persevere in vain.

Are women more inclined to dream than men?

Men, by the nature of their experience in business, are disillusioned concerning the raw verities of life.

Women, I should say, are more tenacious in the hope of waking to a realization of their dreams. But there are exceptions.

The disillusioned man, who continues to dream in the face of disillusion and unhappy experience, is entitled to his reward. On the other hand I think women dream more prolifically. Every desire becomes a dream. We walk along Main Street and peer into shop windows. We see attractive dresses. We dream of getting them.

In this respect we are all children and children are most emphatically of "such stuff as dreams are made on."

The Story of Sue

MARGERY HALE
© 1929 BY NEA SERVICE, INC.

"JACK, there's something wrong somewhere," Sue began without preliminaries, when she was alone with him that evening. "It is in the air... It's all around me... and I can't get away from it. And you know what it is, you and Harry and other people. Can't you tell me?"

"Where did you get such an idea?" Jack asked, lighting a cigarette carelessly. But Sue noticed that his eyes were unusually keen as he watched her.

"Harry helped strengthen it today. Is it something about me?"

"Of course not. You're just right as you are. You shouldn't ask such dumb questions."

"Then what is it?"

Sue didn't know how serious her blue eyes looked, how childishly provocative the dark curls that had tumbled around her face made her appear. She knew only that something was wrong and she had to find out what it was.

"Listen, Sue, will you trust me to let you know just as soon as you ought to know?" Jack's voice was quiet but his eyes pleaded with hers. "Maybe I can straighten it out... it's really nothing... but you know you can trust me, don't you?"

He was drawing her to him, holding her close, and Sue clung to him, tightly, wishing that she could say yes and forget the hovering shadow. But she couldn't. She wanted to know.

"It's... father, isn't it?" she asked, not answering his question. "But aren't you going to trust me?" Jack was pleading. "It's just a little mix-up."

Sue released herself, very gently. She couldn't think in the shelter of those protecting, possessive arms. "Jack, your firm is the legal adviser of the bank. That's how you know. And someone's making trouble for Dad."

"Those things are always coming up in business," Jack answered, pulling her back again. "Just forget about it. I'll take care of it. Your father wouldn't want you to worry about it."

"Does he know that you know?" Sue asked.

"No, and maybe he'll never have to know. Don't mention it to him, Sue. It would worry him to have you frightened."

"But I have to! Somebody has to know and sympathize with him. There has to be somebody to help."

She was remembering her father's worried face, the conversation which she had overheard in the bank, the scarp which Corrinne had had with Sybil Lester...

"Sybil Lester is back of the trouble, whatever it is," she said now, slowly and distinctly.

"That's what I'm afraid of," Jack agreed. "I hope she knows something."

He nodded. "It will help solve it a whole lot easier. Otherwise it may take time. I guess I might as well stop beating around the bush and tell you what it's all about, Sue. Will you promise to leave it all up to me if I do?"

NEXT: Jack explains to Sue. (Copyright, 1930, NEA Service, Inc.)

TWO MENASHA MEN FOUND GUILTY OF HIGHWAY ROBBERY

Judge S. L. Spengler to Pronounce Sentence Next Tuesday

Menasha—John Altenhofen and Tony Blaszk, both of Menasha, were found guilty of highway robbery at the close of their trial in municipal court at Chicago Tuesday afternoon. Judge S. L. Spengler will pronounce sentence Tuesday. The jury deliberated about 20 minutes.

The two men were accused of robbing Lawrence Mader, Appleton, of $17 on Nov. 9. During the testimony Thursday morning, the two men admitted that they were the men who accosted Mader and Stanley Wolfram, also of Appleton, but denied that they took the money.

Wolfram testified that he was with Mader when accosted by the two Menasha men, but that he escaped and did not see the actual robbery. He stated, however, that Mader told him of the theft a few minutes later and that he had seen Mader's $17 earlier in the evening.

THEY PUSHED BOYS
The two defendants said that they pushed the Appleton boys and told them to "move on". The excuse for their action was that they did not like the idea of the two boys loitering around the street at that time of night and stated that the Appleton boys "got tough" when accosted.

The defendants told the court that they had slept on the floor in the rear room of a soft drink parlor that night, and during cross-examination, denied that they had gambled after the alleged robbery. They were neither drunk nor sober, according to Blaszk's testimony.

Altenhofen was questioned on the amount of money spent earlier in the evening and stated that they had spent about $5 on drinks for themselves and Stanley Wolfram. Altenhofen, cousin of Altenhofen, who lived in the house from which the Appleton boys called the Menasha police station, testified that Mader had told of a $5 loss. Chief of Police James Lyman testified as to the time of the call to the station and Tony Kryzkowski, proprietor of the soft drink parlor, told of the two men sleeping in his building.

POSTMASTER ISSUES

APPEAL TO MAIL EARLY

Menasha—An appeal for early mailing of Christmas cards and packages was issued today by W. F. Pierce, Menasha postmaster. The increase in volume of mail during the holiday season is approximately 200 per cent. Pierce pointed out and it is impossible to handle the additional matter within a short time. Packages, cards and letters for Christmas delivery should be mailed a week or ten days before the holiday.

Limitations relative to the mailing of parcels in street boxes and similar stations also were explained. Uninsured parcels weighing eight ounces or less may be mailed in street boxes, but heavier packages must be sent from central stations or branch offices. Packages containing meat, oil, flowers, food products and other perishable matter should be mailed only from a central station or from a large classified station.

MENASHA MAN TAKEN TO COURT ON BENCH ORDER

CALDERMEN TO PLAY KIEL HIGH SCHOOL IN OPENING GAME

High School Squad Completes Preparation for Non-conference Tilt

Menasha—A light workout Thursday afternoon concluded the Menasha high school basketball team's preparation for the opening battle against Kiel high school Sunday at Butte des Morts gymnasium Friday evening. The Kiel tilt will have no effect on conference standings.

Although a squad of over 30 candidates has been reporting to Coach Calder, injuries received on the gridiron during the fall will hamper the activities of at least five of the most promising cagers. Massey, Asmus, Lopas, Robinson and Anklem are still suffering the effects of football injuries.

With only brief preparation for the season's opener Friday, the local cagers will probably be at a disadvantage against the seasoned invaders. The Kiel team has already chalked up victories against New Holstein, Plymouth, Sheboygan Falls, Valders and Two Rivers.

The probable starters in Friday's game will be Grode at center, Massey and Asmus at guards and Becker and Robinson at forwards. Lieble and Michaelkevitz also may see action at center. Lanzer and Sindall will go in as guards and Anklem and Wide-man as forwards.

After Friday evening, the high school squad will begin the long grind in preparation for conference play. Their first league game will be against the Oconto five at Butte des Morts gymnasium Jan. 3.

Two teams scored three game victories. The Blue Bills swamped the Schmitzer Red Tops in three straight and the Fahrbach Agency repeated the process on the Schmitz brothers five. The Gilbert Paper Makers scored a 2,941 total to take two out of three games from the Clothes Shop team and the Menasha Building and Supply team took two out of three games from the Acker Nite Hawks.

A 1,044 team total in one game gave the Mathon Mills five a victory over the Banta publishers in one game but the Publishers won the remaining tilt. Kenny's Thrifty Five took two out of three from the Ripple Grocers and the Hendy Recreation team won two out of three from the Shell Oils.

STICKERS

The Sticker Editor wasn't quite as smart as he thought he was, in the Sticker that appeared Nov. 22. He said that a motorist, starting at A and making 15 turns, and never going over the same road twice, could travel a maximum of 70 miles. A Sticker fan, however, beat his record by five miles. The answer to this Sticker will show how the fan did it. In the meantime, see if you can make 75 miles—or even more. The space between each dot is one mile.

(The correct answer will be printed in tomorrow's paper.)

APPLETON JEWRY OBSERVES FEAST PERIOD NEXT WEEK

Mid-winter Festival Starts Monday and Lasts for Eight Days

The Feast of Lights, called "Hanukkah" in Hebrew, will be observed by Appleton Jewry next week, starting Monday and lasting for a period of eight days. One candle will be lit each day in Jewish homes and in the synagogue, until at the end of the period there will be eight candles burning.

While the Feast of the Lights marks one of the momentous military victories of ancient Israel over the prodigious hosts of the Syrians, the significance of this mid-winter festival unfolds itself primarily in its spiritual essence.

The spiritual message of this celebration has its roots in the historic experiences of the Jewish people. When around 200 B. C. the Syrians sought to overthrow the rising power of Rome in Egypt, they had to conquer Palestine, which is the corridor to Egypt. In the year 458 B. C. Antiochus Epiphanes actually succeeded in subjecting Palestine to his rule. He even marched into Jerusalem and plundered its inhabitants, torturing and putting to death those who crossed his path.

Along with political subjection Antiochus Epiphanes sought the cultural and spiritual subjection of Palestine. He commanded the burning of the Torah and the execution of those who dared to study it. He ordered the pollution of the Temple by converting it into a shrine for Jupiter. He brought torture on those who held fast to Jewish practices. In brief, by dint of persecution, he sought to abolish Judaism and institute in its stead his barbaric form of Hellenism.

A small band of Maccabees, headed by the five sons of Mattathias, fought against the Syrian forces for three years. Finally the Syrian army was routed and the Maccabees entered the Temple. They rededicated it to the worship of God, and inaugurated Hanukkah to commemorate this triumph.

The candles which the Jew lights during Hanukkah urges him to rededicate himself to the struggle of mankind for freedom of thought.

SEEK SKETCHES OF NEW COURTHOUSE

Architects Asked to Prepare Plans for County Board by February

Architects throughout this section of the state are being advised by letter from John E. Hantschel, county clerk, that they may prepare sketches of a new courthouse building for Outagamie county and that these plans are to be ready for presentation to the county board at its February session.

The letters are being sent out on instructions from a special courthouse building committee appointed by Mike Black, chairman of the county board. The committee met recently and delegated T. H. Ryan and John B. Hantschel, county clerk, to notify architects that the county wanted plans for the new building. Drawing of the plans is not to involve any expense to the county.

The proposed new courthouse building is to be designed to meet the needs of the county for 50 years. Architects may design an entirely new building, a new building to be built in units, or an addition to the present building.

LOST DOLLAR IN TAX ROLL HARD TO FIND

Finding a needle in a haystack is a cinch compared to finding a lost dollar in the city tax roll. City employees Wednesday were hieing themselves to obscure corners of the city hall in an attempt to find peace and quiet for the trying process of "proving" the tax receipts with the tax roll. In other words, proving that the total of the receipts equals the total of the tax roll. The "proving" process is trying enough in itself, but should a dollar, or even 99 cents, lose itself in one of the six huge books, the location of it becomes more than trying.

Every effort is made to make the tax receipts completely accurate by the time tax collection begins. From the time the figures are taken from the assessor's field book, down through the long process of computing each personal and real estate tax, copying the assessment roll into the tax books, and then copying the tax receipts from the tax roll, every page of figures is "proved."

Errors apt to occur are the transposition of numbers in copying, dropping to a line below the one being copied, adding or multiplying wrong, selecting the wrong assessment, and a dozen others.

LUTHERAN CAGERS

BEAT MILWAUKEE PEDS

Watertown (P)—Northwestern college defeated the Milwaukee state teachers here last night in a thrilling basketball game by a 25 to 24 score.

It was anybody's game from the beginning. The score was tied four times in the last five minutes of play. Krueger, Northwestern scoring ace, sent the leather through for the final two points to win the game and left his team's scoring honors with four field goals and one free toss.

WHAT TOMORROW MEANS TO YOU

"SAGITTARIUS" If December 13th is your birthday, the best hours for you on this date are from 9 a. m. to 11 a. m., from 3:30 p. m. to 5 p. m. and from 11 p. m. to midnight.

This date will contain an element of unexpected luck, but will prove to be rather "nervy" and unsettled. A different mental outlook will be born out of the day's happenings.

YOUR BIRTHDAY

Children born on this December 13th will be capable of lifting themselves by their own merits to positions of honor. Having a restless and creative mind, they will be in search for knowledge. They will be slow to anger, but hard to appease.

If you are a woman, and your birthday is on a December 13th, you are fitted for one of the "mothering careers," which include medicine, nursing and housewifery. You would be happy and efficient in any vocation where and administer to other people.

You have the gentle, sympathetic touch, which is so appreciated by those in trouble, and you know how to say the right thing at the right time. You are very unselfish, and Number One is the last person you think of, and not the first. There are times, when you do not sufficiently stick up for your own rights, and your sacrifices and services are wasted on ungrateful people.

If you are of the masculine sex, you are rather too diffident and considerate in the practical affairs of life. You are extraordinarily apt in arbitration for others and in settling differences, but you do not seem to be able to apply the same judgment and force to your own affairs.

You are not fitted for a commercial life, or sedentary work, and you should be successful in some agricultural pursuit. You are very fond of animals, and you know how to handle them. You have homely and simple tastes, and the comforts and pleasures, which you receive within the home are satisfying, and you seek few interests away from your own fireside. A formal social life frightens and bores you.

Successful People Born December 13th: 1—Phillips Brooks—P. E. Bishop of Massachusetts. 2—George Fletcher Chandler—Supt. of New York State Police. 3—Robert H. Newell—journalist and dramatist. 4—Lee Mantle—senator.

GENERAL RELIEF COMMITTEE NAMED BY MAYOR FARGO

Present Program Not Efficient, City Officials Decide

Kaukauna—After studying the poor relief program in the city and deciding that a more efficient system is needed, Mayor E. W. Fargo appointed a general committee to be known as Kaukauna's General Relief and Employment committee at a meeting Wednesday evening with heads of various groups promoting relief work here. Peter Renn was named head of the group and J. J. Haass secretary. Other members are the Rev. J. Schaefer, Louis F. Nelson, Mrs. William Harwood, Dr. C. D. Boyd, William F. Ashey and Walter Cooper.

The aim of the committee is to see that the relief work is conducted so that there will be no duplicating. It was found that various groups in the city are giving aid to the same parties. Cooperation is asked by the committee from these groups and churches.

All committees may work as before with reports turned over to the general committee. Records of the work and the parties aided will be listed and filed by the committee which will meet each Monday evening in the council rooms until the relief work is put on an efficient basis. In this way more money per person will be reached, it is expected. The employment committee named recently by Mayor Fargo will work in conjunction with the general committee. Walter Cooper is head of the employment committee. Registered lists will be kept at the Renn office on the Island where the heads of various groups can be informed as to who should receive aid.

POSTMASTER ADVISES PATRONS ON STAMPS

Kaukauna—The use of a special delivery stamp on mail will assure delivery on Christmas day, if mailed at the proper time, according to Postmaster Adolf Mill. Special delivery service means the handling and transportation of parcels with the same expedition as first class mail, as well as the immediate delivery at the office of the address. It is obtained by affixing a special delivery stamp of the proper denomination, or its equivalent in ordinary stamps, in addition to the regular postage. When ordinary stamps are used the words "special-delivery" must be written or printed on the envelope or wrapper immediately above the address. The special delivery stamp is for speed and not for safety, the postmaster stated. Valuable mail should be registered or insured.

EDUCATION BOARD PLANS VISIT TO MANITOWOC SCHOOL

Seeks New Ideas for Building Proposed for New London

Special to Post-Crescent
New London — The New London board of education will go to Manitowoc this week to inspect the new high school recently erected in that city. The trip will be made with the idea of gathering ideas for minor changes in the plans of the proposed high school here. If plans materialize, construction will start soon. At the board meeting at the high school Thursday night plans were laid for advertising for bids for construction.

Changes in the plans as previously made call for enlarging the gymnasium and locating the domestic science and manual training departments in the basement, instead of in a separate building. The floor level of the basement is just below the level of the ground. Numerous changes may be made which will affect the cost of the building, yet which will not detract from the attractiveness or the convenience of the finished structure.

Chapter 27
THE END OF THE QUEST
W HEN the phone rang, the familiar, cool darkness was like a caress. Uncle Jim, breathing a little hastily, took her elbow and steered her into the living-room. Her eyes were becoming accustomed to the dimness, and she recognized the picture of Sir Arctley Sherrill over the mantelpiece, and the copy of the Blue Boy she had treasured. She was glad she had left them at Casa Bianca. She had felt that they particularly belonged in this room; they were a part of all that had come to mean to her. And immersed in them, she didn't notice at once the tall figure that rose from a seat behind her.

"Humph," said Uncle Jim. "Humph! That new foreigner, Dagger. Reckon you're acquainted." She turned, her heart in her throat.

"So you come back to the oasis," said a deep voice that set all her pulses vibrating.

"Blaine!"

Neither of them heard Jim Marley chuckling as he gingerly tip-toed away.

"You don't need to make any big hurry with dinner, Niko," he remarked to the little Japanese cook who still lingered in the hall.

A few days later she was riding with Howard on the range. The horses came to a halt, tails flicking in the heat. Below the river was a desultory trickle threading the mud-flats between the wide banks. The only other sign of life was the inevitable pair of buzzards soaring high over Mexico. Dagger knelt Desmond closer, and leaned her head on Blaine's shoulder.

"It might have been yesterday," she said.

"Not for me," he answered a little grimly.

She raised her eyes to his, and one hand stole up to pat the silvery streak above his temple.

"You went through all kinds of hell, poor Blaine! But you're really not Blaine Howard now, Blaine Howard is dead, and I reckon the hell he had died with him."

Howard frowned perplexedly.

"It's a queer situation," he confessed. "Here I am legally dead, the woman I was married to legally remarried to a man I'm proud to call my friend. I expect my money, and the people I used to know are reconciled to living without me. So I'm more than a man without an identity, unless I choose to carry on as Stacey Hawkins, who died in my arms and said with his last breath: 'No, there isn't a brighter in the world means anything to me, thank God!'"

Dagger frowned in her turn.

"I won't marry Stacey Hawkins," she announced. "I don't love him. The man I love is Blaine Howard, and if he's dead we'll have to try some sort of a miracle to bring him back to life."

"Such as?"

She laughed lazily, offering her lips.

"Is it a fair price?" she asked presently.

And the pressure of his arms was enough response.

"Steady, Desmond," she managed to gasp. "Oh, darling--one breath!" And then, illogically: "I suppose you would have come here anyway. I didn't need to go chasing all over the world after the shadow of a memory."

"I'm not so sure," returned Howard. "I haven't told you this, but just when was it you saw Ghulam Buk?"

She told him.

"Peculiar! It was that night of the next I met an American aviator, who'd come up from Shanghai to sell Chang a bunch of old Jennies. We got to talking about the war, and he spun a yarn of a girl who'd been standing there all up on the flying fields at San Antonio. Why I asked him more about her I don't know; but I did. She was you, of course. And I prodded him on. He told me of your marriage, and your husband's death. Next day, I started for America, and naturally, I headed for the ranch."

"And what does all this mean? Surely, you don't think that Ghulam Buk did some white magic?"

Howard stared out into the emptiness that surrounded them.

"I don't know, Dagger," he confessed. "There are forces in this world that few of us understand. The strongest power in man's possession is an idea, a thought. Perhaps you had been building up a whole chain of thoughts, a pilgrimage, a chain which carried you to Ghulam Buk, and impelled him to will that aviator to meet you--and then influenced Chang to admit to you I was alive. And if you knew Chang as well as I did, you'd realize that that was the most remarkable act in the chain."

"If you're right," exclaimed Dagger, "then there's a reason in your theory. It was Raoul who moved me to follow your trail, Blaine. And Sidi Marut gave me courage to go on to India. And Ghulam Buk--yes, it all does dovetail."

She fumbled in her breeches pocket, and produced the jade locket-piece the Tu-chun had given her.

"By the way," she continued, "I can't help thinking well of Chang. He gave me his luck-piece. He'd carried it over since he was a boy."

"My God," exploded Howard, a hands breath long. "Do you realize what that meant? Do you know what's happened? But no, you didn't see the papers that came today. Dagger, this thing was famous all over China. Men have died trying to steal it. Attempts were made to assassinate Chang simply in order to win it. And yesterday one succeeded. His brain was blown up just outside of the Sung-fu station."

"On?" Dagger's mouth quivered.

"How terrible! But it wasn't because he gave it to me, Blaine. That's ridiculous!"

"Any more ridiculous than that your thoughts built a bridge over which we might come together? No, Chang gave it to you deliberately. He believed implicitly in luck. He said it best, if you choose. And he believed that his luck was dependent upon this stone. When he gave it to you he was giving a hostage to his luck. He was saying, in effect: 'This woman is all to me. Bring her to me. If that may not be, I do not choose to live!'"

"But it can't be true," she insisted.

"Blaine, it's only a little piece of jade that's cold when you touch it with a drag on twisting around. How could that kill a man?"

"It didn't kill him. What killed him was the power that he attributed to it in his mind. Thought, again. What you believe in, if you believe with sufficient conviction, is very likely to happen."

Dagger took it back from him.

"Shall we throw it away?" she asked suddenly.

"Why?"

"Well, if we believe in it, an you say it will help to keep us happy if we don't or if we lose it--"

He tightened his arm around her waist.

"Suppose we keep it--in memory of Chang," he interrupted. "But let's believe in each other. If we believe truly, no harm can injure us."

"We'll keep it," she decided.

"We'll call it the luck of the Oasis and whenever we go away it'll have to bring us back."

"Do you want to go away?" she asked, laughing.

She drew closer to him. Her eyes were seeking him.

"So long as I am with you," she said, "what does it matter?"

THE END

PROF. SAYS PRESENT AIRSHIP UNSOUND
London -- "Technically, commercially, and politically, lighter-than-air ships are at present unsound. That is the opinion of Prof. A. M. Low, who commanded the R. F. C. Experiment Corps during the war and whose statement was provoked by the recent R-101 disaster."

"Airships like the R-101 cost about $2,500,000, and although approximately the size of the Mauretanic can carry a mere 50 passengers against 2000. They can only stay where there is a mooring mast, and a mooring mast costs about $350,000."

"It is more than doubtful if all ships will ever be serviceable for passenger-carrying purposes. As air liners, they are death traps. Nothing could be clearer than that. What is not so clear is how anybody with the slightest knowledge of the very possibilities of airships could be persuaded to finance these flying freaks."

SENATORS NOT IN HURRY TO SUPPORT WORLD COURT PACT

Bound to Dispose of Other Important Measures Before Protocol

BY DAVID LAWRENCE
Copyright 1930 by Post Pub. Co.
Washington — President Hoover's communication to congress advocating action on the world court protocol clears up the doubts that were expressed when he intimated in his annual message that he would like action at the present session. Promptly the opponents of the court took the position that the president was interjecting a controversial issue into a session that was to be devoted to legislation for the relief of unemployment.

The president points out that he wants action "as soon as possible" after the emergency relief and appropriation legislation has been disposed of. This means that the president does not wish the program of congress to be disturbed and that any filibuster against the world court can only be brought about after the emergency relief measures have been acted upon. Certainly no administration senators are going to press the world court protocol until the senate really has time for consideration of the proposal without embarrassment to important legislation. It means that the president kept pace with the proponents of the world court, some of whom were pointing to the delay as likely to be construed by the opponents as a loss of interest by the president in American adherence to the world court.

MINORITY PLANS ATTACK
If the protocol were to come to a vote in the present senate there would be two-thirds in favor of ratification. The minority members realize however that it is to their advantage to prolong the debate in the hope of developing opposition. One of the difficulties about calling an extra session of the senate after March 4 is that there will be many new members in the next senate and there will be a loss of senators who have already committed themselves to the world court by previous votes.

In this connection the American foundation which was established by the late Edward W. Bok has just issued the results of an inquiry directed to two thousand and thirty-six editors of daily newspapers as to whether their editorial staff is for or against the ratification of the world court protocol. The announcement says that thirteen hundred and fifty seven dailies with a combined circulation of twenty-seven million are definitely in favor of ratification as against two hundred and sixty-five papers with a total of ten million opposed.

The circulation of the three hundred and forty-two papers which did not reply is approximately two and a half million or only 6 per cent of the total circulation. Less than 1 per cent of the papers, comprising a circulation of about four hundred and thirty thousand registered "no stand," which is interpreted as meaning a neutral position. In 46 states the preponderance of opinion, or the majority of newspapers both as to number and as to circulation, registered a favorable opinion, according to the survey.

ASK CITY POLICE TO ENFORCE DRY LAWS

Neillsville — (P) — Followers of the Rev. George Longacker, pastor of the Congregational church, today drafted a petition asking the city council to empower the police to enforce prohibition laws. The council rejected the petition in its original form, saying penalties were too high and that it did not approve including families possessing liquor for home consumption among violators as suggested by the petition. The original petition demanded fines ranging from $100 to $1,000 for a first liquor offense.

TREND OF STOCK MART UNCERTAIN; TRADING IS FAIR

Movements See-saw Trying to Find Trend Between Industrials, Oils

BY CLAUDE A. JAGGER
Associated Press Financial Editor
New York (AP)—The stock market see-sawed uncertainly today, trying to find a trend between congested periods of strength in the industrials and utilities and heavy trading in the oils and rails.

A list opened with considerable advance, as shorts impressed with equanimity with which the news of the closing of an uptown bank was received yesterday, hurried to cover. The institution, however, was unimportant to Wall Street. A technical rally of some proportions seemed to be developing but before midday some of the rails sagged, and dragged the list down. Another upturn, wider than the first, was followed by pronounced heaviness of the oils.

Standard of California dropped 3 points to new low ground, and Standard of N. J. lost more than a point. Texas Company, Standard of N. Y., General Asphalt, and Phillips were among issues selling off a point or so to new low ground. Atchafalaya lost about 2 points, rallied, and sagged again. Union Pacific dropped 8, then recovered.

U. S. Steel was one of the firmest issues in the list, selling up 2 points, and refusing to yield much of its gain. Other issues selling up 2 or more included American Telephone, Westinghouse Electric, National Electric, Chicago and Northwestern, and Johns Manville, while such issues as General Electric, Dupont, and Pennsylvania gained a point or so. Anaconda dropped 2 to the lowest in six years, then recovered partially.

Continued heaviness in oil and gasoline prices still seemed to be hanging over the petroleum issues, although the day brought forth nothing new of consequence in the petroleum situation. Skelly declared its regular preferred dividend. Crude oil and gasoline prices are at unprofitable levels, however, and fourth quarter earnings estimates are rather gloomy. Most of the standard companies report their earnings only once a year.

Several substantial orders for railway equipment were reported, and the efforts of the steel industry to stabilize prices seem to be meeting with better success than some similar endeavors. Cotton has just touched the lowest price in 15 years. Furthermore, silver bullion had another drop, recording a new historical low at 32 1/2 cents; at once, or about 28 per cent under the price as of the first of the year. The effects of the heaviness of this metal are primarily in trade with the far east, where the metal is still used as a monetary base.

Call money renewed at 2 per cent, then rose to 2 1/2, the first time it has gone above 2 per cent since Sept. 16. The speculative demand for funds remains light, however, and the change in the rate was without appreciable influence on the market. It was described in banking circles as in part a seasonal trend, and in part due to the withdrawal by banks wishing to have large supplies of cash.

The federal reserve condition statements showed that the system was working to keep money easy, despite increased requirements. There was an increase of $41,000,000 in currency in circulation, $25,000,000 in bankers' acceptances, and $15,000,000 in government securities. The New York banks, however, sold bonds and purchased government securities.

Developments in the rails indicate slow progress toward consolidation. As expected, the Baltimore and Ohio purchased the Chicago and Alton from the auction block. Baltimore and Ohio also asked the Interstate Commerce commission to give it more time to dispose of Western Maryland. Pennsylvania, recently ordered to dispose of its holdings of Lehigh and Wash., is also expected to request substantial time in which to dispose of it. It does not block the order in the courts.

Conditional approval of the Denver Rio Grande and Western's plan of sale of control of the Denver and Salt Lake brought the Van Sweringen system a step nearer the Pacific coast, but early acquisition of Western Pacific is regarded as unlikely.

The Atchafalaya, Topeka and Santa Fe railroad has ordered 22 all-steel caboose cars from the American Car Company to a total of 594,363 short tons as of Dec. 1, the American Bureau of Metal Statistics reports. Mine production of copper in the United States declined slightly last month to 33,741 short tons, against 35,554 in September, according to the National Bureau of Economic Research.

North and South American copper production increased to 369,532 short tons Nov. 30 against 364,930 at the end of October and 126,919 Nov. 30 last year. Shipments of pneumatic casings showed a decline in October, amounting to 6,599,300, compared with 4,495,175 in September, and 4,649,596 in October last year, the Rubber Manufacturers association reports. Shipments for the first ten months of this year, however, exceeded production by 4.3 per cent, whereas, during the first ten months of last year, production exceeded demand by 4.3 per cent.

LITTLE CHANGE ON HOG, CATTLE MARKET

Sellers Find Difficulty in Holding Prices Where They Halted Thursday

Chicago (AP)—Fresh receipts of 23,000 hogs were lighter by 10,000 than the previous Friday, but they were supplemented by a steady receipt of 10,000 carried over unsold from the previous day. This made it difficult for sellers to do more than to hold prices at the point where they halted yesterday near the year's low point. As trading got under way sales of 170-230 lb hogs at $7.80-7.85 were found to be 10-15c higher than Thursday's average, with underweights held at $8.00. Packers received 9,000 hogs on direct killing.

Few loads of beef steers in the entire run of 2,000 cattle proved attractive to buyers, but no choice beefs were available. About 1,000 calves arrived and they were neglected during the first hours. Packers received 116 head of cattle on direct consignment. A generally steady tone ruled the opening market.

Direct shipment of 3,273 lambs to several packers took place, but the estimated run of 7,000 live muttons. Light activity marked the opening trade, barely steady prices being available for fat stock, though there was fairly brisk inquiry for feeding lambs.

RENEWED STRENGTH SHOWN ON CHICAGO CORN, WHEAT MART

Attention of Traders Centers About Corn Which Shows Rallying Power

BY JOHN P. BOUGHAN
Associated Press Market Editor
Chicago (AP)—Attention of grain traders centered chiefly today on the corn market, which displayed good rallying power on declines. Renewed strength shown by securities had considerable effect, but holders of corn whose confidence had been shaken were rather free sellers at times. The wheat market here made took the Winnipeg July delivery down to a fresh low-price record for the season.

Wheat trading soon relapsed into lethargy today when indications appeared that government sponsored agencies had prices so thoroughly in hand that for the generality of traders there was little incentive either to buy or sell. Some of the brokers found time to call attention to an obituary placard which for a brief while had been posted on the improved bulletin board nearby. The placard read as follows: "Died—the wheat pit, burial, Washington, D. C."

Selling of corn today was of only a desultory sort, and speculative buying soon checked downturns in prices, talk again was current that the peak of the seasonal movement of corn away from rural sources has been passed. Primary arrivals of corn today totaled 1,780,000 bu, compared with 1,830,000 bu a year ago. Oats were easy, influenced by action of the corn market.

According to advices to some grain houses, recent extra favorable weather conditions had the effect of starting the corn crop market movement earlier than usual, and from now on the receipts of corn could be expected to show a steady decrease. Chicago arrivals of corn today totaled 167 cars, against 267 cars a week ago and 276 cars on the corresponding day in 1929.

Grain Notes

Chicago—Wheat traders are selling July in Chicago at 9 cents under old may. The market is said to be over-sold and should some good sized buying orders come in traders say a sharp advance might result, since the price is so low. There is no scarcity of buyers, the farm board being in the market with orders sufficient to take all offerings.

There is said to be no disposition on the part of the farm board to bid old style delivery December wheat prices up. Where shorts try to cover on any of the old style months it is said there would be a sharp advance. It is believed by traders that prices eventually will work higher. There is a little hedging of cash balances each day, but not enough to enable a buyer to get a liberal sized line without bidding prices up sharply.

Australia and Argentine offerings of wheat are abundant and prices show very little strength. Broomhall says the world's supply of wheat is known to be abundant and in excess of the present reduced buying power.

A number of the large local traders are evening up their lines on both sides of the market, particularly on the long side. They say they do not like the speculative situation.

Operators in corn futures said at the close that all the large holders had sold out during the day and that the market was heavily over-sold. Corn futures, which recently were higher than wheat, are at a good discount.

CURB MART ASSUMES CHEERFUL ASPECT

Public Sentiment Also Revived—Firm Undertone Noted in Trading

New York (AP)—Sentiment assumed a more cheerful aspect on the curb today and prices responded cautiously. Small advances were well distributed throughout the list after a steady opening, but shorts declined to be drawn into a general covering movement and the market had to get along with little support from this source.

An interesting event of the day was the increase in the call money rate shortly after noon to 3 per cent from the renewal rate of 2 1/2. The latter had held for about two months and a half. The upward revision was attributed to the appearance of seasonal demands for funds, which are at their largest at Christmas time and also to withdrawals by banks seeking to strengthen their cash positions.

Electric Bond and Share led the utilities out of their recent slump, rallying more than a point in an active turnover. Most of the others firmed fractionally. Steadiness of the oils was momentarily broken by Standard of Indiana's dip below 85, but it recovered its fractional loss. Vacuum gained a point and the others moved narrowly.

Industrials were mainly firm, although Glen Alden Coal lost a couple of points. Dugan, Aluminum of America, Ford Limited, Ford of Canada "A," Anglo Chilean Nitrate, American Cyanamid "B" and Technicolor ruled unchanged to slightly higher.

The decline in most of the investment company shares was halted and several, including United Fruit, an electric power associates, profited by covering.

TODAY'S MARKETS AT A GLANCE

PRICE MOVEMENT ON BOND MART NARROWS

New York (AP)—The burden of liquidation thrust upon the bond market this week was considerably lighter today. Price movement narrowed and some sales were recorded at small fractions above the previous close, as some of the pressure was lifted from the market. The volume of trading fell off from the high point of the week reached yesterday.

There was a disposition in some circles to look for gradual improvement following the heavy flow of selling from institutions and investors that has unduly depressed bond prices this week. The average losses yesterday were smaller than on the previous session. Bond men were inclined toward a belief that the situation which has influenced some of the selling by banks had been improved by the developments of the past two days but added that it was too early to speak with certainty.

It was pointed out that the bond market has suffered of late from the absence of buying by both banks and insurance companies. Among institutional investors, insurance companies are second only to commercial and savings banks in purchases of bonds. While there has been a large increase in their premium income, several insurance companies say that previous commitments to purchase mortgages and the loans to policy holders has absorbed a large portion of their surplus funds. As a result their purchases of bonds has been small.

The unsettled condition of the bond market caused a sharp drop in new financing this week. The week's total of $12,820,000 was one of the smallest of the year and compared with $24,000,000 in the previous week and $39,741,161 in a similar period a year ago.
